Gettysburg faces the loss of the large part of its multi-million dollar tourist industry and relegation to location on a secondary highway, with the accompanying loss of huge sums of money in equities in business, farm and residential properties, if the Pennsylvania toll turnpike is extended to Philadelphia.

This was the consensus of leaders in business and travel circles over the announcement that studies of routes extending the toll road are authorized to be made by the Pennsylvania Turnpike commission.

Gettysburg and Adams county will lose hundreds of thousands of dollars in the aggregate and the likelihood that it will be the hub of a series of modern constructed highways is reduced to nil. Engineers who made the original survey of the extension of the route to Philadelphia state that to be profitable, the route must have a 50 per cent subsidy plus the assurance that no parallel free routes will be built or modernized so as to provide competition to the toll road.

The proposed toll road, local observers point out, will channel annually Pennsylvania's $500,000,000 tourist and travel business through the Commonwealth on a monopolistic toll road, between wire fences, into the resorts of New Jersey, New York and the New England states.

TELLS CHAMBER ABOUT REMOVAL OF RADIO STATIC

Reports of progress on the part of the Metropolitan Edison company in its search for the cause of poor radio reception in Gettysburg were presented Monday evening to the directors of the local chamber of commerce meeting at the chamber offices on Baltimore street.

Manager C. O. Lenthert, of the electric company, reported that his organization has been searching for electrical causes of radio disturbance since Christmas and that "about a dozen" static causes had been discovered so far. The owners of the equipment causing the static have promised to have the matter attended to so that the machines or lights will not interfere with radio, Lenthert said.

He also added that additional static producing equipment is probably in the community and that his staff is continuing its search. Some householders may have defective lights or wires that may cause such static, he added, and suggested that householders check their own electrical equipment and wiring.

The local chamber accepted an invitation from the U. S. ## METERS WILL OPERATE UNDER STANDARD TIME

Schools, churches, the courts and court house and business places and factories in Gettysburg operate on Daylight Saving time, but the town's parking meters are going to be on Standard time.

The reason for this is, according to the borough council, which adopted a resolution at its regular May meeting Monday night fixing Standard time for the meters, that although almost everything else is on fast time, the town itself, meaning the town government, has not changed its clocks.

The borough council was informed by Borough Solicitor Eugene V. Bulleit at its last meeting, in April, that a state law prohibited the borough from changing its time, so the consensus of opinion Monday night when the meter question was brought up was: "What else can we do?"

The council authorized Borough Engineer LeRoy H. Winebrenner to have new cards printed and inserted on the face of the meters with the hours and words "Standard Time." The action will become effective Monday, May 12.

Firemen Ask Alterations
The operation of the meters on Standard time will give parkers an hour longer each morning before they have to drop their coins in the slots, but the borough will collect for an hour longer parking in the evenings.

Council referred to the property committee and Engineer Winebrenner. (Please Turn to Page 5)

After the two weeks' vacation the youngsters will be returned to New York. The Tribune Fresh Air Fund pays all transportation costs including an escort to and from Gettysburg.

"It will create greater pride in our own free institutions . . . we have been fighting Communism over the years, trying to point out the dangers to people in high places. . . I can disclose tonight that I found it in the National Guard of Pennsylvania when I served as commander of that great body of men. ## TRAINS CARRY FREIGHT BULK, ROTARY HEARS

"The railroads carry 90 per cent of all freight tonnage that moves on wheels," J. R. Tenney, Hagerstown superintendent of safety for the Western Maryland railway company, told the local Rotary club Monday evening at its regular meeting at the YWCA.

"For that reason alone one cannot count the old iron horse out of the transportation picture," he added, "it will be with us for a long time to come."

At the present, trucks handle 4.7 per cent of all freight tonnage moved, the pipe lines handle 12.4 per cent of the total and the railroads 66.9 per cent of all tonnage. Taking the pipelines and ship traffic out of the picture, 90 per cent of the remaining tonnage is handled by the railroads, he said.

Kesseling, German Chief In Italy, To Be Shot For Crimes

Venice, May 6 (AP)—A British military court today sentenced Field Marshal Albert Kesseling, former supreme German commander in Italy, to death by shooting after convicting him of war crimes against the Italian people.

Kesseling's counsel, Dr. Hans Laternser, had declined to ask for clemency after the verdict was announced, saying:

"He expressly asked me not to address the court any further."

The attorney said later, however, that he himself would "appeal personally against the sentence."

The five-man court deliberated 40 minutes to reach the sentence. When Kesseling heard the words, translated by the interpreter, he sat down abruptly in his chair. Then he was led from the courtroom by British military police.

Convicted On 2 Counts

NATIONAL PARK OFFICIALS HERE FOR SESSIONS

Recent trends and problems of historical conservation in the United States were the topic for discussion at this morning's session of the four-day meeting here of National Park officials from region one.

Forty-five members of park staffs along the eastern seaboard gathered here Monday for the opening meeting of the convention held in the Hotel Gettysburg.

Most of the discussion Monday centered around better methods of handling visitors to the various areas. While most of the men attending were convinced that the best way was through the use of guides, only one of the parks represented, Gettysburg, has a guide force such as used here.

Explanatory devices and trail-side exhibits were outlined as the best answer for the non-guided parks and even such guided parks as Gettysburg can benefit by trail-side exhibits, it was pointed out.

First Session Here
As an example of such trail-side exhibits, park officials pointed out, present plans call for a picture of Spangler's Spring showing it as it was at the time of the battle to be erected at the spring so that tourists being guided over the field may see at one glance the scene as it was during the war and as it is today.

Ronald P. Lee, Washington, D. C., chief historian for the National Parks, presided at Monday's session and pointed out in his introductory remarks that while the annual meetings are usually held at Washington or Richmond the group decided to meet this year at Gettysburg to permit the various historians, superintendents and other park officials to see how problems are handled here.

This afternoon the group is to visit the National Museum to view an illustrated lecture by an electrical map Joseph L. Rosensteel is to give the lecture. After that they will return to the hotel for further discussion on the uses of such maps.

Simmons Case Expected To Reach Jurors Late Today

The Commonwealth's this afternoon asked the Humpert jury to put aside any appeals to their sympathy and see that justice is done in considering the evidence presented in the trial of Ray H. Simmons.

Special Assistant District Attorney Daniel E. Teeter, summing up for the prosecution, said that "the Commonwealth does not wish to kill anyone. It did not wish to be involved in the death of Herbert Humpert but it does want to see that justice is done."

"You must put aside any appeals for mercy and you should carefully sift from your mind anything that is immaterial or anything that is just argument," he added.

The trial of Ray H. Simmons, 23, of Mechanicsburg R. 1, on a charge of murder for the death of Herbert L. Humpert, 70-year-old Tyrone township farmer on the night of March 24, neared its conclusion this afternoon.

The taking of testimony, cross-examination of witnesses and rebuttal testimony was completed shortly after court opened this morning. Defense Attorney Thomas D. Caldwell, of Harrisburg, opened his summation to the jury at 9:43 a. m. Except for a ten-minute recess shortly before 11 o'clock, Caldwell talked for one hour and 54 minutes.

He was finished at 11:37 o'clock, and court then recessed to 1 o'clock so that the Commonwealth summation would not be interrupted by the noon recess.

Special Assistant District Attorney Daniel E. Teeter began his summation of the Commonwealth's case after court re-convened. The State earlier in the trial had asked conviction of first degree murder with the death penalty. If Teeter uses approximately the same time as was consumed by Caldwell, this, plus Judge Sheely's charge to the jury, was expected to bring the case actually into the jury's hands at a late hour this afternoon.

Says Simmons Was Drunk
The defense, in its summation, asked the jury to be sure, "beyond any reasonable doubt," that the Commonwealth had proved that Simmons killed the Gardners R. D. farmer, and then went on to assert that the prosecution had failed to show that this was the case, and to point out that Humpert might have met his death, either accidentally, through a fall in the barn, or at the hands of a person or persons unknown.

Caldwell also reviewed testimony he said showed that Simmons, on the night of March 24, was "too drunk" to remember, did not remember, but related in his statements what had been told him by Robert L. Staley, who was indicted with him.

He declared that Simmons was "one of the tragic examples of war, who learned to drink in the army," who was discharged from the Marine Corps as "totally unfit for further service" due to his mental condition. In reviewing the testimony of Dr. Hamblen C. Eaton, Harrisburg state hospital, Caldwell said Simmons' lack of memory was due to his drinking and his inability to "take the stress and strains of daily life."

Dealing With Death
"We are dealing here today with a very serious thing—death," Attorney Caldwell told the jury. "It is easy to talk about the death penalty, but you are being asked to vote to kill this 23-year-old boy."

The defense counsel pointed out that Simmons was tried, not for assault and battery, aggravated assault. (Please Turn to Page Two)

TRUMAN SENDS GREETINGS TO CHRIST CHURCH

A personal letter from President Truman was among several messages read at the 200th Anniversary Service of Christ Reformed church, Littlestown, Sunday morning. Approximately 725 persons attended the concluding service. A speaking system installed by E. J. Gobrecht carried the service to those who had to occupy the Sunday school room. Additional greetings were received from members of the Bloomsburg congregation and Uniontown charge in Dauphin and Cumberland counties, which were the two previous pastorate of Rev. John C. Brumbach, present pastor; also from Rev. John K. Adams, Bloomsburg, who officiated at the wedding of Rev. and Mrs. Brumbach, and at the baptism of their daughter, Audrey. He also assisted in the preparation of the "History of Christ Church."

Other greetings were announced at Sunday's service from President N. E. McClure, of Ursinus college; Rev. Nevin E. Smith, pastor of Emmanuel Reformed church, Hanover; Edwin A. Sell, Belleville, N. J.; the Protestant Parish of Otterberg, Germany, where the Kuntz family originated; from the Mayor of Aisenborn, Germany, where the Schreiber family originated. He is a relative of the Schreibers, and from Congressman Chester H. Goss.

In addition to the greeting sent by the Otterberg parish, a picture of the parish church was sent, as well as a water color painting of the town hall and a portion of the town adjoining it, as they appeared in 1747.

Truman's Greetings
President Truman's message follows:

"The two hundredth anniversary of the founding of Christ Reformed church is indeed a notable occasion. As a nation we are counted young in years."

"And yet the founding of Christ Reformed church in 1747 carries our minds back to the colonial period when separation from the Mother Country had hardly been dreamed of; when for the most part the men who two score years later were to lead the Revolutionary movement were mere boys."

"Those sturdy pioneers who established the church had inexhaustible spiritual armory: their prayer books, their Bibles, their faith in God, and their industry and thrift."

"I trust that the descendants who have so rich a heritage out of the past will always be worthy of the forebears to whom they owe so great a debt."

The will disposes of an estimated $13,400, personal property and real estate.

NEW GI FARM CLASS TO OPEN

Adams county's third GI farm class will begin Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, DST, at the office of the county superintendent of schools, Richard C. Lighter, supervisor of the federally financed farm courses for veterans in Adams county said today.

Nineteen county veterans have had their farming programs approved and are authorized by the Veterans Administration to take the "things in this class, Lighter said. The new class brings to 61 the number of former armed force members taking the farm courses in the county.

Three agricultural education teachers, Cecil R. Snyder, Biglerville; Elmer H. Shriver, Gettysburg and John L. Kratzert, New Oxford, will teach the class during the month of May. On June 1, E. H. Rice, Arendtsville, former agricultural education instructor at Arendtsville high school, will begin full time duties as teacher for the class.

Rice has been employed for several years by the National Fruit Product corporation at Peach Glen.

Child 'Very Ill' With Meningitis

Patricia E. Baker, aged 18 months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Baker, Gettysburg R. 3, Franklin township, is a patient in the Warner hospital suffering from cerebrospinal meningitis. She was described this afternoon by her attending physician, Dr. P. J. McGlynn, Biglerville, as being "very ill."

The Baker child, whose home is a half mile north of McKnightstown, was taken ill last Wednesday and was admitted to the hospital on Saturday. Diagnosis of her illness was made Sunday.

The home was placed under a 14-day quarantine Sunday by William I. Shields, state sanitarian for Adams county.

Patricia is the younger of two children in the Baker family. She has a brother of school age.

800 HERE FOR DISTRICT MOOSE SESSION SUNDAY

Merle Clark, Reading, regional director of the Moose, was the principal speaker Sunday afternoon at a meeting of the first district of the Pennsylvania Moose association held at the local Moose lodge on York street.

More than 800 were present at the local home for the session at which 20 of the 21 lodges in the district were represented. Clark urged the lodges to increase efforts to promote such activities as baseball, basketball and other sports in their home communities.

He also urged lodges to back every worthy community effort to the limit, stressing that the lodge's ideals of fraternal service should be extended to the entire community.

Attendance Record Set

In concluding he urged greater efforts on the part of Pennsylvania lodges to secure memberships in order that the state may soon become the leading center of Moose activities in the U. S. At present, he said, only Illinois has a larger Moose membership.

Paul Miller, past governor of the local lodge, was named as a candidate for first vice president of the region when it meets for its annual election of officers at Hamburg June 1. Election to that post in the past has meant automatic election to the presidency the following year.

Elmer L. Warren, governor of the local lodge, welcomed the delegates present. The meeting was the largest district session in history, district officials said. Following the meeting in the afternoon the delegates were guests of the local lodge at a supper and entertainment.

JURY INSPECTS HUMPERT FARM, SCENE OF CRIME

The Adams county jury before whom Ray H. Simmons, 23, of Mechanicsburg R. 1, is on trial here for the murder of Herbert L. Humpert, 70-year-old Tyrone township farmer, visited the Humpert farm Sunday afternoon and viewed the spot where Humpert's body was found by a neighbor, Spencer McKinney, on March 24.

The ten men and two women of the regular jury and the two women alternates, walked down the lane where Mrs. Spencer McKinney, a neighbor, said she last saw Humpert on the late afternoon of March 24. They looked at the dilapidated house, paintless for years, and stared in its lower windows. They gathered around the spot where it is alleged that Humpert's blood flowed into the ground, and where his lantern and glasses were found.

Accompanied by Officers In custody of Sheriff J. E. Millhimes and Deputy Sheriff B. E. Bixler, and the regular attendants who have been with them since Wednesday, the jurors entered the upper floor of the almost paintless barn, peered down through the hay hole mentioned frequently in the testimony, and the men on the jury descended the narrow stairs to the dark passage where the body was found. The women entered the feed entry from an outside lower door.

They saw and examined the feed entry door, the two halves of which open independently of each other, and examined the hook. They saw where the bags of feed stood. They looked over the path between the house and barn, and directed their attention to the back porch, its rickety steps that were there the night the state says Humpert died, now removed.

They saw these things, and, presumably, much more. They looked at the photographs of the house, barn and yard which are now used as exhibits in the case, and they compared these with the actual scene upon which they stood and walked.

Attorneys Silenced
Some wanted to ask questions, but the attorneys could not answer them. The court had ordered that attorneys, both prosecution and defense, could only say: "I direct your attention to..."

The jurors were taken to the Humpert farm in a bus, leaving the Hotel Eberhart, where they are staying, about 3 o'clock. District Attorney J. Francis Yake, Jr., and Special Assistant District Attorney Daniel E. Teeter were there awaiting them. So was Defense Attorney Richard A. Brown. There was a delay while the party waited for the arrival of Thomas D. Caldwell, Harrisburg, the chief defense attorney.

There was a small gathering of (Please Turn to Page 5)

YAKE ANSWERS SCHULTZ APPEAL

An answer to a petition for allowance of appeal by Olden Schultz, Biglerville R. D., was filed this morning with the county clerk of courts by District Attorney J. Francis Yake, Jr.

Schultz recently filed with the court papers asking to be permitted to appeal from the decision of Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore in a fish law violation case. On April 21, the justice fined Schultz $100 on a charge of setting off explosives in Marsh creek near Cashtown just before the trout season opened. William W. Britton, state fish warden, in testifying before Basehore alleged that a great number of fish were killed or stunned by the explosion and that Schultz was seen coming from some bushes near the scene immediately after the explosion.

Attorney Robert W. Geigley, who is representing Schultz, in the petition for an appeal stated that "no evidence was produced by the Commonwealth to directly connect the defendant with the crime."

District Attorney Yake, in his answer denied that there was no evidence to connect Schultz with the case and says there is not sufficient reason to justify the allowance of an appeal.

Judge W. C. Sheely set May 19 as the time when the matter is returnable. At the time the justice passed sentence in the case Schultz declared he would appeal the case "to the Supreme court if necessary" and posted bail to permit such an appeal.

AUXILIARY HEAD HERE

Simmons Denies Major Parts Of Confession; 'Too Drunk' To Remember

Denying important parts of his earlier statement to state police, Ray H. Simmons, 23, Mechanicsburg, on trial here for his life in the slaying of Herbert L. Humpert, elderly Tyrone township farmer, took the witness stand this morning in Adams county court and asserted he was drunk and remembers nothing of the events of the night of March 24 when Humpert was slain.

Simmons' Statement To Police

Reads Simmons Statement
The statement made by Simmons to District Attorney J. Francis Yake, Jr., and to state police on April 2 when the Mechanicsburg youth was brought to the Humpert home to reenact his activities on the night Humpert died was read to the jury by Mrs. Annabelle Little, court reporter, Saturday morning. By agreement between counsel Mrs. Little read directly through the transcript of her notes taken at the scene. She read for 20 minutes.

After completing the transcript of her notes, Mrs. Little read a statement which she said had been dictated to her in the office of District Attorney Yake later that day by Simmons and Cpl. L. D. Jenkins of the state police. Jenkins, she said, asked the questions and Simmons dictated the answers to her as she transcribed them directly on the typewriter. There was some questioning on the part of defense attorneys whether Jenkins or other police had assisted Simmons in giving the answers to the questions and as to whether the answers as recorded by Mrs. Little were exactly what Simmons had said or whether they represented summaries made by her of what he had said.

No Changes Made
Mrs. Little said no changes had been made at the direction of police and that the answers presented, as closely as possible, word for word, the statements made by Simmons.

The two statements disclosed that Simmons and Staley had discussed the possibility of going to the Humpert farm. (Please Turn to Page 5)

Saturday Afternoon's Testimony

The highlight of Saturday afternoon's four hours of testimony was the statement by a Commonwealth witness that Simmons was "pretty well drunk" up the night of the slaying, March 24, approximately an hour before he is charged with having administered a fatal beating to Mr. Humpert.

That testimony was given by Mrs. Myrtle Herring, Baltimore street, sister of Robert L. Staley, who is charged with Simmons in the Humpert slaying.

Purchased Liquor
Mrs. Herring, who said she is 21 years old, testified she met Simmons for the first time the evening of March 24 when he came with her brother, Robert, to her residence about 7 p. m.

She told of two trips to the state liquor store in center square by the trio with Mrs. Herring buying a fifth of whiskey on each trip. She said Staley furnished the $3 for the first purchase by borrowing the sum from Nick Jones of Gettysburg. Mrs. Herring said she used her own money for the second purchase.

She said that once during the evening Simmons mentioned to her that they were "going after money" that night and Mrs. Herring said, from the stand, she had reminded her brother that he was on parole and had warned him about "getting into something like this."

"Acting Very Foolish"
The witness said her brother and Simmons drank most of the first bottle although they shared it with her. They also drank the greater part of the second fifth and Staley poured what remained into a "coke" bottle and took it with him when the two men left "about 11 or 11:30 o'clock."

"Ray got to acting very foolish," Mrs. Herring said and staggered as he left the house. Her brother did not stagger, she said.

Mrs. Herring smiled when she recalled that the first whiskey bottle was finished "not long after" it was brought home. There was laughter from the courtroom and Judge Sheely rapped sharply for order with the statement: "This trial is not being conducted for your amusement. It is a very serious case and the party over the field."

The story that Simmons told to Adams county authorities was rehearsed "four or five times" between Simmons and Robert L. Staley while they were locked up in jail together, Simmons testified in court here this morning.

Words "Put in His Mouth"

Simmons was called to the witness stand in his own defense, after the Commonwealth rested its case at the opening of court this morning. Three points stood out in his testimony:

That he and Staley got "drunk" in Gettysburg on the afternoon of March 24, and that he, Simmons, remembered nothing from the time he got "drunk" here until he was taking a cold shower in Staley's home in Mechanicsburg hours later.

That all he knows about what might have happened at the home of Herbert L. Humpert, near Gardner's was told to him by Staley.

That the authorities, including state police and District Attorney J. Francis Yake, Jr., "put words in his mouth" when he made statements to them and signed a confession.

The state contends that Humpert died the night of March 24 in the barn at his farm, from blows inflicted by Simmons with a claw hammer.

Denies Hammer Is His
Simmons testified that the hammer recovered by state police from Coneago creek at Twin Bridges, on the Harrisburg road, and one of the exhibits in the trial, is not his hammer.

His hammer, he said, had his initials deeply burned into the handle, and when he last saw it, it was in a tool box in the trunk of his automobile. This was in the custody of state police for several days.

Simmons testified that his parents have informed him that the tool box is no longer in the trunk of his car.

"Stupidly Drunk"

Opening the case for the defense, Attorney Richard A. Brown asked the jury to remember that "this is a charge of murder, not robbery."

He said the defense would show that Simmons came "from a good, Christian family, a hard-working family of farmers"; that he was in school until two months before time for his graduation; that he was called into the service, and served in the Marine Corps; that, after a year's service he was discharged after a serious operation and after developing a mental condition; that, after he returned home he was highly nervous and unstable; that, all his trouble came from his service; that, Simmons had no knowledge of a plan to rob Humpert; that, after coming to Gettysburg and drinking, he became "stupidly drunk," and remembers nothing, and that, finally, "there is no evidence to show how Humpert reached the final position in which he was found," and that the defense would show "that there are several ways this old gentleman could have met his death."

Ask Acquittal
We ask an acquittal for lack of evidence, Brown concluded.

Simmons admitted that he and Staley drank the greater part of two fifths of liquor Monday evening, March 24. Simmons said he did not remember the second fifth, however. He testified that he did not remember leaving Gettysburg, and did not remember where he went.

"The next thing I remember I was taking a cold shower at Staley's house," he said. The house was once a naval barracks, now converted to residences.

"Plenty Happened"
Simmons' reason for throwing his shirt and trousers through an opening in a covered bridge five miles from Mechanicsburg was, he testified, that they were "soaking wet," and he had "vomited" on them, and didn't want his parents to know.

"Had this 'vomiting' ever happened before?" Defense Attorney Thomas D. Caldwell asked. The answer was "yes."

"What happened then?" "Plenty happened," Simmons replied. "They jumped all over me. I really got plenty of heck. They didn't want me to drink."

Marriage Broke Up
There was also "vomiting" inside the car and some on the outside, Simmons said, when he went to a service (Continued from Page 5)

BYRD IS PLEASED BY BUDGET CUTS

Washington, May 6 (AP)—Economy advocates rode firmly in the Senate saddle today with a precedent-breaking vote to slash labor department federal security agency funds bobbing along behind them.

For the first time in more than a decade, the Senate voted yesterday to cut deeper than the House in approving a $1,676,198,000 appropriations measure for the two bureaus. The figure was $2,388,000 less than the lawmakers across the Capitol had allowed and $100,000,000 below President Truman's budget estimate.

Senator Byrd (D-Va.) who has been preaching economy for years, told a reporter he was gratified. "It's the first time in 14 years that the senate has shown any disposition to cut government spending," he declared. "I think it means that we are going to have some real economy in this Congress."

Byrd said no one can guess yet whether the Republican goal of trimming from $4,500,000,000 to $6,000,000,000 off President Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget for the year beginning July 1 will be reached. He said the final tally will depend on what, if any, reductions are voted for the armed services.

With the $183,000,000 cut recommended yesterday by the house appropriations committee for the state, commerce and justice departments and the federal courts, the budget trimming now stands at about $1,140,000,000.

Army, Navy and Veterans Administration supply bills are yet to be written.

Simmons Case

sault, or for robbery, but for the death of Humpert.

"The principal point, and the only point," Caldwell continued, "is how Mr. Humpert came to his death. The Commonwealth has proved only that this old gentleman was found dead at approximately 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Only two persons could know what happened—Simmons and Staley. Simmons says he does not remember. Staley has not been called. Any number of persons could have come to that farm between Monday afternoon and Wednesday afternoon. . . . The state's testimony stops at the point where Humpert was sitting in the barnyard, holding his head."

Asks Acquittal

The defense attorney argued that Humpert could have gone to the barn to throw down some hay for his stock early on Tuesday morning, and fallen through the hay hole, or he could have tumbled down the adjacent steps. He pointed out that Humpert's glasses were not on him, but lying on the ground outside.

In concluding, he declared that there were "too many gaps," in the state's evidence, and "too many possibilities" that Humpert had died of a fall or by some other means, to justify a conscientious verdict of guilty, and asked that the prisoner be acquitted and returned to his family.

Hear Medical Reports

The defendant was re-called to the stand Monday afternoon, and was followed by his father, Samuel M. Simmons, 60, who has a farm near Mechanicsburg; the defendant's ex-wife, Mrs. Beverly Simmons, Marysville, Pa., and his mother.

A series of medical reports of the United States Marine Corps in which Simmons served about a year, and the testimony of Dr. Hamblen C. Eaton, clinical director at the Harrisburg state hospital, occupied a large part of the afternoon.

Simmons, the records showed, received an honorable discharge from the Marine Corps, because of "constitutional psychopathic state, psychoneurosis anxiety and inadequate personality," and these, the report continued, were "not incurred in line of duty, existed prior to service, not due to misconduct, and not aggravated by service."

"Violent Temper"

More specifically, the reports claimed, that Simmons "would break up completely under combat conditions," and that "noise and excitement surs him; that he quit school because of a violent temper; has nightmares, his judgment is poor and insight lacking." The Marine Corps reports said he was "not considered to become a menace to himself or others," however.

Dr. Eaton described Simmons very much as he was classified in the service, and declared that in his opinion he was in the "twilight between normalcy and mental disorder."

His diagnosis, he said, led him to the opinion that use of alcohol produced "mental aberration." He said he examined Simmons at the Dauphin county jail on April 25 and 27, and talked with his parents.

No Combat Service

Simmons said he had never seen combat service. Records of a burglary in Elizabethtown and two robberies in Harrisburg were read into the record again, State Policeman Joseph P. Salzinger, Harrisburg, identifying a confession signed by Simmons in connection with the Elizabethtown case. Simmons admitted his signature.

He reiterated during the afternoon what he had told in the morning, that he knew nothing of what happened at the Humpert farm, and said that: "Bob told me the whole story." He referred to Robert Staley, who was indicted with him for the Humpert murder.

"Nobody told me the actual words" in the statements he gave Yake and Mrs. Annabelle Little, court stenographer, he said. "Bob told me the story and I put it together in my own words. I told them I hit him with the hammer simply because Bob told me that I hit him," he said. "What I testified to you is what I picked up from Bob."

Admits Having Breakfast

Simmons then said he told the story at the Humpert farm the day after his arrest because he had gone 38 hours without food and "ix to eight hours without water." "They did that to me, you don't know what they are going to do next," he said.

He admitted on cross examination, however, that he was given breakfast before being taken to the Humpert farm April 2.

"Isn't it true that after you fellows finished off Humpert and got the money, you went to where Humpert lay and put the feed bags under him and carried him into the feed entry?" Yake questioned.

"I don't know, because I don't know whether I was there or not," Simmons replied.

Doctor Testifies

Yake read these words from Simmons' statement made April 12: "I want what is coming to me, but if I had been sober I wouldn't have did it."

"Did you tell us that?" Yake asked.

"Yes, I said that," was the reply Simmons and his father, mother and ex-wife all testified that there had been times when Simmons could not remember things he had done. They said he "drunked" another automobile in Harrisburg, "took a piss at my wife" at their home in Mechanicsburg, and "black-ed out" during the night and gave

FUGITIVE FREE, RENEW DEMANDS

Pittsburgh, May 6 (AP) — W. H. Bucksburg, alias W. H. Dern, was still a "free man" in Pennsylvania today, but the state of Ohio was insistently demanding his return to serve out a quarter-century-old prison term.

Judge Thomas F. Marshall of the Allegheny County Common Pleas Court last week turned down an Ohio request for Bucksburg's extradition.

The record showed, Judge Marshall said, that the 46-year-old carpenter had led an exemplary life since he walked away from a juvenile home in Columbus in 1923. He had been committed for a minor theft.

If Judge Marshall's ruling went unchallenged, Bucksburg would be a free man as long as he remained in Pennsylvania and continued to live the life of a good citizen.

But Ohio, whose officials say she never forgives her fugitives from justice, did not let the ruling stand.

Yesterday, Artemas C. Leslie, Allegheny county district attorney, ordered an appeal from Judge Marshall's ruling carried to the Pennsylvania Supreme Court of Appeals. Leslie said the action was requested by the Ohio governor's office.

"The concerted effort of all our people is needed," he said at the first national fire prevention conference "in order to make effective the known methods of preventing fire and preventing large losses where fire occurs."

Mr. Truman's speech formally launched the deliberations of the three day conference.

Change In British Industry Advancing

London, May 6 (AP)—The Labor government's drive to nationalize Britain's key industries neared its final goal today with approval by the House of Commons of a measure to bring under public ownership all inland transport — railroads, buses, trucks, subways, street cars and canals.

The bill now goes to the House of Lords, where heated opposition by the overwhelming conservative majority is expected, but rejection of the measure by the upper house would force a constitutional crisis which might further restrict the already limited powers of the lords.

"If the House of Lords attempt to frustrate the bill," Aneurin Bevan, Laborite Minister of Health, declared, "we shall set their resistance aside. Seeking for myself only, I would set the House of Lords aside anyway."

INVESTIGATE BLAST

Pittsburgh, May 5 (AP)—Police sought today the cause of a mysterious explosion which rocked a three-block area on the city's Northside early yesterday. Hundreds of residents lined the streets tried to discover what happened. Most declared their homes were shaken violently and Allis-Chalmers company officials said their buildings were rocked. A check of other plants failed to disclose any explosions.

Wisconsin Bowler Wins Sweepstakes

Philadelphia, May 5 (AP)—More than 200 bowlers struggled to better the 1,078 rolled by Ned Day of West Allis, Wis., in the fourth annual Serpico Quaker City sweepstakes but when they were finished early today, Day was the winner of the $1,250 first prize.

Day rolled his score last Monday and it was good for a 19-pin edge over Stan Niemiec, Wallington, N. J. The test was for five games bowled across 10 alleys.

Among those competing last night was Johnny Crimmins, former national champion from Detroit, who rolled only 905 while Ben Chapman, manager of the Philadelphia Phillies, scored 920 for 24th place.

In the Newell-Winchester sweeps of four games across eight alleys, John Sroczynski of Orange, N. J., scored 882 for first prize and a $750 plum. Lou Camp, Dumont, N. J., had taken the lead with 880 last week and his total was good for second place.

ROWE, LEONARD, DEFY PROPHECY, SET PHIL PACE

By HERB ALTSCHULL
Philadelphia, May 5 (AP)—For a couple of old-timers who were supposed to be in the twilight of their careers, Emil Leonard and Lynwood Rowe are doing all right.

As a matter of fact they're calling the 35-year-old Rowe and the 37-year-old Leonard the "one-two punch" of the Philadelphia Phillies after they teamed to win their second straight Sunday double-header.

The resurgent Phillies, aiming at a first division berth for the first time since 1932, have won eight games and of those, Rowe and Leonard have accounted for seven.

Schoolboy Rowe, who was sent to the minors by the Detroit Tigers after several poor seasons and later came up with the Brooklyn Dodgers, currently is setting the National league pace with a 4-0 record.

Leonard Close Second

Dutch Leonard is only a step behind with 3-1, and that one loss was a 1-0 affair at the hands of the Brooklyn Dodgers while Hal Gregg was spinning a one-hitter against the Phils.

Leonard in one of baseball's stranger moves came to the Phils from the Washington Senators at the end of last season for the $10,000 waiver price after seven American league clubs had waived his services.

Yesterday Dutch bested Cincinnati's ace, Ewell Blackwell, in a 5-3 ball game and it would have been 5-1 if an error in the ninth hadn't given the Reds a life.

Schoolboy, who looks and pitches more like a schoolmaster these days, romped home 10 to 5 after his mates rapped out eight runs in the first three innings.

Trim Giants Twice

A week ago Sunday, Leonard and Rowe set back the hard-hitting Boston Braves by identical 5-4 scores. Earlier Rowe had trimmed the Giants twice, 4-3 and 10-1 while Leonard coasted to an 11-5 victory over the New Yorkers.

Although each has yielded a total of 13 runs or a per-game average of a little more than three runs, the granddaddies of the Phil staff have been tight when it counted and have showed remarkable stamina for their ages.

Rowe has completed all four games he started. Leonard lasted the route against the Giants, worked a full game against the Brooks, seven innings versus the Braves and eight and two-thirds opposing the Reds.

In each of the last contests, Blix Donnelly was called upon for relief work to aid the tiring Leonard.

Manager Ben Chapman was glowing today about Rowe and Leonard — but he was more than a little anxious that some of his young fry start turning in victories, triumphs that might move the Phils up from their current fifth spot in the senior circuit chase.

TWO TEAMS TIE IN INTERSTATE

(By The Associated Press)

Harrisburg and Lancaster, displaying tremendous early season batting power, had joint control of the interstate league's top rung today each with four victories and no losses.

Harrisburg clubbed out 20 runs and Lancaster 19 yesterday in scoring respective double triumphs over Trenton and Hagerstown yesterday.

Wilmington's Blue Rocks, last year's champion, finally hit the win column with two victories over Sunbury. York and Allentown were rained out.

Although Harrisburg's Senators rocked Trenton pitchers for 15 hits in each game of the double-header and recorded 10-1 and 10-3 victories, hurler Bill Rook was the big name. Rook whiffed 15 Giants in the nine-inning nightcap.

Lancaster's Red Roses, last year's cellar dwellers, continued to show surprising strength by upending the Hagerstown Owls 12-6 and 7-3.

Ex-Detroit Tiger, Boost Poffenberg, hit a pinch homer for Hagerstown.

Joe McNamara's two-hit flinging edged Sunbury in the opener for

It could be the "Jet Job"—if you've ever heard one of those things coming over with a noise like a convention of fire sirens, you know how Louisville, sounded on derby eve—or the "Phalanx Derby."

Batting, Ron Northey, Cardinals—Slugged two homers and a single in his first day with St. Louis to drive in four runs and lead his new team to a 9-0 victory over Boston which snapped a nine-game losing streak.

Pitching—Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, Cardinals—Limited the Braves to five hits in hurling the 9-0 shutout, the first St. Louis victory since April 18.

Kump whiffed 13 batters and had a shutout until the final inning when a pair of hits and an error allowed a run.

The victory was the second in three games for Coach Howard Shoemaker's clan.

The Maroons scored twice in the first inning. Kump was safe on an error. Doubles by Hershey and Hess produced the tallies.

A single by W. Bucher in the fourth, two successive stolen bases and Eisenhart's single produced another tally.

Three more tallies came in the fifth on singles by Sheffer and Kump, an error and a single by Hess.

A walk to Kump and one-base blows by Hershey, Benner and W. Bucher accounted for the final pair of runs in the seventh.

The Maroons will play a return game with St. Francis here Friday afternoon.

Elmira Team Opens With Double Win

Although rain continued to play havoc with eastern league schedules, the weather dispensers did permit Elmira to open its home season yesterday and the Pioneers responded with a doubleheader victory over Albany.

The Pioneers, playing to 5,650 customers, trounced the Senators 4 to 1 in the opener and came back in the night cap to eke out a 3 to 2 victory.

Two other doubleheaders, Binghamton at Wilkes-Barre and Utica at Scranton, were rained out.

In the only other loop tilts, Hartford and Williamsport, divided an extra-inning twin bill at Williamsport.

Home run power and good relief pitching by Dave Sheehan gave the Hartford Chiefs a 7-5 decision over Williamsport in the opener. The Tigers grabbed a 4-3 win in the nightcap, however, over young Harry McPherson.

Both games went 10 innings.

DOCTORS HEAR

"Although the actual course of treatment may be only a matter of eight days, it will be most important for all individuals so treated to be checked by the clinic at regular intervals over a three-year period with blood examinations. Failure to do so may result in incomplete cure with the development later in life of complications from the disease.

"Improvement after the initial treatment is gradual as revealed by the blood examinations which may gradually return to normal after a six- to eight-month period of time. Best results are obtained in the very early cases so treated. Most satisfactory results are obtained in instances of pregnancy. An infected mother so treated can expect a 97 per cent chance of bearing a normal infant which is a marked improvement over older methods.

Describes Treatment "Actual cases of the disease in a number of infants will greatly improve under penicillin therapy," he declared.

Dr. C. Harold Johnson, pathologist at the Warner hospital, described details of the technique used in the quantitative blood examination employed in the follow-up of the cases treated with penicillin. These tests will be done at the local hospital.

At the business session Dr. Raymond Hale, of Arendtsville, was elected delegate to represent the county physicians in the state medical organization. Dr. David Thompson, of Abbotstown, and Dr. Raymond Sheely were elected alternates. Dr. Eugene Elgin, of East Berlin, was elected district censor.

Dr. Bruce N. Wolff reported that the state medical society is setting up seven centers in the state for post-graduate instruction of doctors.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and
The Gettysburg Times
ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

Borough Election: The Charter election of the Borough of Gettysburg took place on Tuesday, and resulted in the choice of the following gentlemen (who were on the Whig ticket,) without opposition—except to one of the School Directors (Mr. McConaughy.) The vote was David McConaughy, 80, Elias Sheads 79.

Burgess—James A. Thompson. Council—John B. M'Pherson, Jacob Norbeck, David Troxell, Wm. Ruthrauff, Robert W. M'Sherry.

School Directors—Robert Cobean, David McConaughy.

Married: At Gettysburg, on Tuesday, by the Rev. C. F. Hoffmeier, Mr. James Curran, of Freedom township, to Miss Mary Magdalena Leeper, of Menallen township.

Another Great Victory—Battle of Cerro Gordo: By the steamship M'Kim, which arrived at New Orleans on the 30th from Vera Cruz, glorious news has been received from the army under Gen. Scott.

The main battle at Cerro Gordo occurred on the 18th and resulted in a complete triumph of the American arms. Although the Mexicans outnumbered Gen. Scott's army very materially, and occupied positions which looked impregnable, our gallant soldiers stormed the different heights, and captured work after work in gallant style. The Mexican loss upon the heights was awful. Our army also suffered severely having at last 500 killed and wounded. General La Vega is among the captured generals, and again fought valiantly.

It is more than probable that this decisive victory will end the war, as Santa Anna will have difficulty in getting together another army. God grant it may be so, for the heart sickens at the dreadful scenes which this war has already exhibited.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Dividends.—The First National Bank of Gettysburg has declared a semi-annual dividend of 4 1/2 per cent, and the Gettysburg National Bank of 6 per cent.

Saw Mill Burnt.—Mr. Valentine Beamer's saw mill in Menallen township, was destroyed by fire on Sunday, the 27th ult. Loss about $2,500; insured in the Mummasburg Company for $700.

Election of County Superintendents.—The tri-ennial Convention of School Directors met in the Court House on Tuesday (May 7), and was called to order by Mr. Hankey, County Superintendent. Wm. B. Gardner, Esq., was appointed chairman and Wm. S. Hildebrand and Dr. G. A. Uhler, secretaries. The Convention was unusually full, 142 Directors being present.

The Convention proceeded to fix the salary of County Superintendent. A vote was taken to test the sense of the Directors—65 voting for $900, 57 for $900 and 9 for $1,000. Neither figure receiving a majority vote, a motion was made and carried to make the salary $900.

But two candidates were presented for County Superintendent—Mr. P. D. W. Hankey, the present incumbent, and Mr. Aaron Sheely, who filled the position two terms before the last. The ballot resulted, 53 for Hankey, and 89 for Sheely.

It is but due Mr. Hankey, who is filling the vacancy caused by Mr. Wert's resignation, to say that during the brief period he has been in office, he has faithfully and satisfactorily discharged the duties. Unfortunately he is a Republican while his competitor is a Democrat. The vote in convention was strictly partisan, with one or two exceptions.

Beer.—Mr. John Bartel has opened a new Brewery in the house formerly occupied by John Chrismer as a Bakery, where the public will be served with Beer in any desired quantities. Also on hand at all times, Sweitzer and Limburger

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GOD, THE FATHER

All power, beauty, wonder, color, and the earth's wealth, are wrapped in the deepest mystery. There is no human explanation. Man can only set apart elements and give to each a name. And he can only create new forms and usages from the parts discovered.

About, within, above and below, are the shadow and substance of God, the Father. We do not dispute the existence of much of the unseen, because we prove that existence by what it does. Electricity, for example. We cannot see perfume, but we know that it exists. What man can perform the miracle of a seed into its growth to flower, foodstuff, or tree? Can any disbeliever explain the mystery and wonder of an impregnated human cell into a Washington, a Lincoln, or a Shakespeare? Who gave the joy of song to the mocking bird I so much loved in the southland?

If everything in life were to be explained in advance, where would our faith come in? Could we then be inspired by incentive, and led on by hope? To whom but God, the Father, could be attributed the wonder, the mystery, and the beauty of this earth, with man given every opportunity to search into its secrets, being rewarded richly for his efforts and his faith?

I often think of that inspiring line, that I once read which was printed above the bed of William E. Gladstone, the great English statesman: "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on Thee."

The confidence of a child is perfect, so long as its tiny hand is held tightly in that of its earthly father. How much greater should that confidence be with his hand of ours tightly held in the grasp of our Heavenly Father—God, the Father of us all? Let the skeptic have his views. Whose hand can he clasp in the darkness of sorrow, fear, or confusion—leading him into the light of hope?

"For he trusteth in Thee." There is the secret. Trust, confidence, belief—faith. Freedom from fear! There is no political, or economical solution to this one great objective of the human soul. Locked doors cannot shut it out. Worry cannot eliminate it. There is but one fountain head of peace and consolation in all this world, and that is to be found in God, the Father, through faith and faith alone.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Courtesy Capital."

Just Folk's

By EDGAR A. GUEST
The Poet of the People

TROUBLED ENGLAND
It isn't Merrie England now.
It's England bravely sad.
It can't afford the groaning board
That Merrie England had.
The red roast beef is thin and spare.
The little pies are few.
The Banbury buns are not the ones
That Merrie England knew.

There's misery in England now
And ruin stark and grim.
The floods have leapt the walls and swept
The little gardens trim.
There's many a battered roof and spire
That must be built anew.
Now, gone the days and gone the ways
That Merrie England knew.

But still, the English hearts are stout
And what they must will brave.
Again, again will Englishmen
Stand up to wind and wave.
Though rough the way, and sore beset,
They'll see disaster through
Till they restore the joys once more
That Merrie England knew.

GAS TAX RAISE DECISION SOON AT HARRISBURG

By MARTIN BRACKBILL

Harrisburg, May 5 (AP)—An administration decision is due soon on the question of boosting Pennsylvania's gasoline tax from four to five cents a gallon to provide funds which State Highway Department engineers assert will be badly needed in 1949.

Chief Engineer Ed Schmidt of the Highways Department said motor funds are ample to carry out the state's road building program in the next two years "but we will be broke in 1949 unless we get more money and we cannot wait until then to get it."

Gov. James H. Duff deferred action on the problem in his budget message to the General Assembly in March, stating the need for a penny boost in the gas tax "will depend in a large measure on the rapidly with which the (Highways) department can put necessary work under contract x x x."

Letting Contracts
The answer, he said then, "can and will be given before the end of this session, during which time a number of contract bids will be received which should reflect the action necessary to be taken."

Since then the Highways Department has opened road bids practically every week and Schmidt said lettings have averaged 86 per cent of them, "a very good record."

At the same time, bids have been running close to estimates and in some instances under them, with no contracts being given on work where prices are too high—bids 10 per cent over engineering estimates.

In his budget message, Governor Duff estimated $141,000,000 would be spent on new road construction in the next two years against $40,900,000 in the current biennium. Resurfacing, overhead and maintenance costs will run another $109,000,000 compared with $77,100,000.

Plans Differ
Declaring "the obsolescence of much of our whole highway system" has been accelerated by practical cessation of construction during the war, Duff added that whether in view of this and "inflated costs" the question of the need of "an additional cent of tax on liquid fuels" arises.

Pennsylvania now imposes a permanent three-cents-a-gallon tax, a half cent of which is allocated to counties, and a one-cent temporary tax which expires May 31.

Governor Duff has recommended its re-enactment and an allocation of $17,000,000 from its receipts to municipalities, divided equally among second class townships and all other local governmental units. Municipalities, on the other hand, are seeking the entire receipts—estimated at approximately $33,000,000 in the next two years.

GREEN SALADS AID TO HEALTH

The New Broad Leaf Endive Is a Fine Summer Salad

Green, leafy vegetables, which supply your family with Vitamin A and calcium, include the leaf crops which are served uncooked in salads. If you like bowl salads, you can serve one at least once a day without complaint.

Many leaves can be used for bowl salad, including all the greens which are also cooked. But our chief reliance will probably be on leaf lettuce and endive, especially the form known as escarole or broad leaved endive.

Ready in Midsummer
During hot weather we must depend on escarole, which takes 90 days to mature. By sowing a row at the same time as the first lettuce sowing, we may have it ready in midsummer when trouble with lettuce usually begins. Three sowings of endive, made twenty days apart, will provide you with daily salad leaves until freezing weather.

The best quality of both broad and curly leaved endive is obtained by giving the plants plenty of room in the row so they mature loose heads. The leaves grow crisp and turn cream colored at the base.

Newer varieties lack the bitter tang which older forms used to have before frost had sweetened them. It is no longer the practice to bleach the leaves by tying them up, or placing the heads between boards, as this reduces the vitamin content of the leaves.

Endive not only stands hot weather better than lettuce, but it remains in good condition longer in the fall, being improved in quality by frosty weather.

APPROPRIATION BILL
Harrisburg, May 5 (AP)—Rep. Albert E. Madigan (R-Bradford) has introduced a bill in the State House of Representatives to appropriate $95,000 to the Pennsylvania State college for a research program in artificial insemination of cattle. The money would be devoted to construction of building, purchase of machinery, supplies and apparatus required in the work.

The Assyrians and Babylonians are believed to have been the first people to use lamps.

DAHLIA TAKES PLACE NOW AS USEFUL PLANT

The dahlia has come a long way in the last twenty years. During this period it was evolved from a hobby flower to one of our most useful garden plants. At the same time it has increased greatly its list of followers, who grow dahlias, both large and small, as a hobby and find great relaxation both in its culture and in exhibiting the results of their labors. Unlike many other garden plants, many fine new varieties have appeared during this twenty-year period directly as the result of backyard amateur hybridizers.

Around 1927 the dahlia was just emerging from a stage of weak stems, when it was necessary at exhibitions to show the large-flowered types with their bloom resting on the top of a milk bottle. Most of the early dahlia growers were men who found in the plant something to challenge their interest and efforts, and who were richly rewarded by producing beautiful new varieties. It rightfully can claim the distinction of being responsible for bringing more men into the garden than any other flower, unless it be the rose.

Giants And Miniatures

Today it is possible to plant a complete border or bed using nothing but dahlias, and to have a wide variety of color and form plus a large supply of cut flowers for the home. Along with the improvement of the giant-flowered types, the years have seen introductions of countless miniatures, pompoms, singles and medium sized varieties that have furthered the interest in and scope of the plant. Flowers now may be grown by even the beginner that range from one inch to as much as sixteen inches in diameter.

Dahlias may be grown from root divisions, plants or rooted cuttings with assurance of flowers this season and a supply of tuberous roots to carry over for next year. Plants and rooted cuttings generally are much cheaper than root divisions, and the price of most varieties is regulated by the amount of stock available. The dahlia propagates so readily that a new variety selling for as much as $15.00 this year may be purchased as green plants for as little as $1 to $1.50 three years from now.

Need Moisture

Dahlias like an ample supply of moisture but demand good drainage. They will not grow in poorly drained, wet locations. They also must have full exposure to sun, as they will not do their best either in shade or even semi-shaded areas. A location where the air circulation is good is recommended as it will eliminate likelihood of mildew late in the fall when the plants attain full size.

Well rotted manure, humus, peat and compost all aid in improving any type of soil. Where soil is too heavy, sand may be mixed with it to improve its physical structure and to assure better drainage.

Montbretias Easy Flower To Raise

Montbretias take their place among the rarer summer flowering bulbs. While many gardeners know them by sight they fail to realize that they are as easy to grow as gladioli. They want a good soil with ample drainage and do particularly well in sandy soil improved by the addition of humus, leafmold or peatness. As they are not reliably hardy in this climate planting of the bulbs should be deferred until all danger of frost is past.

Though quite small the bulbs are covered with about two or three inches of fine soil. Space them to stand eight to ten inches apart. Water them freely during hot and dry weather and when buds begin to show apply weak liquid manure to increase the flower display. Take them up after the first light frost in the fall, dry, and store over winter in the same way as gladioli.

Fleecevine Yields Masses Of Flowers

The fleecevine, Polygnum auberti, is the most valuable species for garden planting because it will not spread, this in sharp contrast to most other species. It is an airy climber, with small, light green leaves and great masses of buck-wheat-like flowers that cover the plants during the early summer and again in the fall. When in full bloom little of the foliage is visible behind the masses of white flowers.

Although it is hardy in this section, the young, tender shoots formed from midsummer on will succumb to frost. To keep the plants presentable these dead shoots should be trimmed away in early spring before new growth takes place.

Things Of The Soil

May—Lawn, Garden and Farm 1 to 10—

Every fruit tree owner should be armed fully with information and materials to apply the post-bloom sprays.

Pop corn should be planted in advance of field corn. Do not place too much dependence in tree bands. It is well to remember these do not bar flying pests—only those that crawl.

It is wise to suspect plant lice on all plants. Inspect often; start war early; combat always with a contact insecticide.

Sell off roosters as soon as eggs from the flock are no longer needed for hatching purposes.

Plow land now and work surface down to a firm seed bed for sowing Sudan grass after the middle of the month.

A stout hoe and considerable patience are the best team for killing moles. In other words, dig 'em out. Give wrens a welcome with suitable houses. These little friends feed on many destructive insects.

Get an early habit of cutting weeds while they are young and using them on the compost heap for manufacturing organic matter.

Look over the list of summer bulbs and adopt several for their beautiful, easily grown flowers.

11 to 20—

Watch for flea-beetles on most vegetables and ornamental plants and combat them with cryolite or rotenone.

Screen stables, keep livestock manure covered or hauled from the barnlot daily, and otherwise practice a strict program of prevention in a crusade against the disease-carrying house fly.

Hand-pick bagworms and burn the webbed nests.

Build a lily pool and have it ready for planting later in the month. The editor will be glad to furnish directions.

Combat cutworms with a poison bran bait.

Ants usually visit peonies to feed on the honeydew secreted by aphids. Kill the aphids and the ants will leave.

Are you dusting roses with the well known Massey dust? Ask the editor for simple mixing formula.

Plant sweet corn. Select one of the wilt-resistant strains where wilt has been troublesome.

Set out sweet pepper plants, also eggplants.

It is not too late to sow a few rows of salisfy.

Kill the first striped cucumber beetles that appear; they carry the organisms of wilt as well as feed on the plants.

Write the editor about problems of chicks practicing cannibalism.

21 to 31—

Plant improved varieties of soybeans in the vegetable garden for table use.

Have you asked the editor for a free copy of our 1947 grape spray schedule? Merely enclose a 3-cent stamp.

Prepare soil to plant dahlia tubers within the next 10 days.

Wage war on the first green cabbage worms. Ask the editor for control measures if you are in doubt.

Start precautions early this year to avoid danger of spotted fever from ticks.

Set out sweet potato plants before end of the month.

Rogue out diseased plants from raspberry, blackberry and dewberry plantations whenever detected.

Do not carry unsolved problems or unanswered questions over into another active growing season. Get the profitable habit now of writing the editor for all needed lawn, garden and farm advice.

PESTS KILLED BY USE OF DDT

Pick Eggplant Fruit When the Skin Is Shiny.

DDT has been a boon to egg plant, because it destroys the chief insect enemy of this attractive vegetable. This is the flea beetle, which eats tiny holes in the leaves, and was difficult to destroy until DDT was discovered. Occasional dusting with the new insecticide disposes of this pest completely.

Egg plant is a tropical plant closely related to peppers and tomatoes. It takes so long to mature that plants are nearly always started indoors and transplanted to the garden. The plants require an even temperature and do not thrive in cold frames. A dozen plants are sufficient for the average family.

The dark purple fruits are highly decorative, and if you plan to enter a basket of vegetables in the harvest show, an egg plant is an absolute must in arranging an attractive display.

The fruit may be eaten at any stage of growth, until its skin becomes dull. As long as the skin is shiny, the flesh within is in good condition, but when that stage passes, the fruit should be discarded. There are many tempting ways of cooking this vegetable and several different methods should be used during the season.

Egg plant is widely used in Asia, Japan and the islands of the Pacific; soldiers who served in that area had many opportunities to learn how it is served there.

The plants require rich soil and should never be set out until all danger of frost is over as they are extremely tender. Set them 18 inches apart in the row and keep them growing by frequent shallow cultivation.

When fruits begin to set a side dressing of plant food will make the fruits larger. Some varieties produce a few large, and some many small fruits.

Garden Activities For Early May Days

The cabbage maggot, which feeds on the tap roots of plants just below the soil surface, is an unwelcome visitor in the vegetable garden at this time each year. The pest is injurious to cabbage, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts and broccoli. One method of control is to place paper disks around each plant immediately after planting and place soil over the edges of the disks to hold them firmly in place.

Leave your spring-flowering bulbs undisturbed until the tops have turned yellow and died down. When cutting blooms allow the plant to retain as much foliage as possible.

Soak Evergreens Well
Complete the planting of evergreens as soon as possible. Soak them well, if the soil is dry, to encourage good root growth.

Make succession plantings of gladioli at two-week intervals to insure a long blooming season.

Thin vegetables before they become crowded.

Spring is the ideal season for planting flowering, broad-leaved evergreen shrubs.

Lightly mulch newly planted trees and shrubs with peat moss, grass clippings or leaves. This material prevents the soil from drying out.

Plant lettuce, onions, Swiss chard, parsnips, beets, parsley, early cabbage, carrots, kohlrabi, mustard, turnips, New Zealand spinach, broccoli and early cauliflower.

Time to Sow Annuals
Sow such annuals as marigolds, annual larkspur, California poppies, nasturtiums and others between the rows of daffodils and tulips as fillers when the bulbs cease blooming.

Plant deciduous trees and shrubs. Soak the ground around daffodil and tulip plantings if it has been made dry and hard by strong spring winds.

Plant roses and perennials for new summer color.

Fruit trees and strawberry plants still may be set out.

Spray fruit trees before the blossoms fall.

It is necessary to water peonies frequently and thoroughly to fill out the buds.

Divide clumps of chrysanthemums, hardy asters, phlox and boltonias. As they grow, pinch out the centers of the plants to make them bushy.

Today's Talk

BRAIN DUSTING

Dust will gather anywhere. Nature neither sleeps nor stays still. She is spreading herself every hour of the night and day. Her dust is ever on the move. And so we dust our books that lie in our homes, on their shelves, upon tables, or hidden out of sight. (A bad thing for any book to endure).

Dust is the bane of the housewife. Never is there an end to her dusting! But there is this brain of ours. That needs dusting, too! But how few ever give such a thought consideration? Think of the years some ideas have rested there, gathering mental dust! Think of the innumerable things once stored there in the shape of thoughts, exciting books, conversations, and selected knowledge, that have never been given consideration since the day they first were placed there!

We have all stored ideas and thoughts in our minds without ever going back to see if they had a safe resting place. The brain needs constant dusting to keep it alert. How many a time we have put a book away in our library, where it has rested for years, gathering not only physical dust, but age dust! Then we have gone to it, given it a cleaning, and read it again, only to discover that we had never discovered its beauty, or its varied wealth!

Change, vacations, travel, new beginnings, all are brain dust removers. And how we all need them! At the close of every day, meditation should help to keep the mind well dusted. Pleasant companionship, where the mind is stimulated and kept alert, can also be depended upon to keep the brain dust proof.

I think it was Lowell who wrote: "Time makes ancient good uncouth." There must be continual use, and exercise, according to the brain to keep it well dusted and healthily active. Books are medicine, but so also are the contacts which we have with people—all sorts of people. None too humble but, from whom we may learn!

Cheerfulness, and a hopeful outlook toward life, do wonders toward keeping this brain from gathering dust and losing its lustre. What a responsibility we all have toward this most precious possession which God has bequeathed to us!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Allow No Fixed Period!"

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST
The Poet of the People

THE EVIL MEN DO
I know that every time I meet
A surly man in town,
In shop, cafe or on the street,
I, too, begin to frown.
Should he give me a crusty word,
All self-control I lack;
The self-same sort of speech I've heard,
I promptly give him back.

But when I'm greeted with a smile
And pleasant, friendly speech,
I try to imitate the style
That cheerful people teach.
I'd have them find the traits in me
Their happy natures show.
Thus reputation comes to be
And good opinions grow.

So quickly I return in kind
The smile or frown I see.
I do not like some churlish mind
To make a churl of me.
And since we get as we bestow,
And give as we receive,
I'd rather, as I come and go,

CREWS WORK TO REHABILITATE FLOOD AREAS

Rutland, Vt., June 5 (AP)—Emergency crews worked desperately today to restore flood and water facilities to this flood battered Green mountain community of 18,000.

The first major step in rehabilitation was taken last night when electric power, ruptured for 24 hours, reached the city through auxiliary feeder lines.

The utility services were wrecked when a nine foot wall of water, released by smashing of a power dam, poured into wide sections of the city Tuesday night. Torrential 24-hour rains preceded the break.

Will Take Weeks
Authorities estimated it would be two or three weeks before normal gas service was restored, but city officials hoped to establish a water connection today for sanitary purposes.

Meanwhile, drinking water was being rushed in tank trucks from Bellows Falls to this city. The vehicles with a total capacity of nearly 30,000 gallons, were loaned by Greater Boston milk distributors.

Spring water also was available in several sections of the city. Officials reported that the food and milk situation, described as critical yesterday, was relieved by arrival of emergency supplies.

Few Families Return
Few of the 500 families that abandoned homes when the water bounded out of a 20-foot wide creek had returned to their mud strewn dwellings. At least 60 persons were being cared for at the state armory where the Red Cross set up quarters. Others had been taken in by friends.

The raging waters spewed mud from five inches to two feet thick in hundreds of residences in the northerly section of the city and battered foundations in some areas.

Unofficial estimates of damage ran as high as $2,000,000. Considerable of that was in crop destruction and residential property wreckage. The business section escaped undamaged.

Four persons reported missing during the height of the flood had been accounted for. The last—a 13-year-old boy who wandered from the yard of his home—showed up yesterday.

Harrisburg Patriot Official Expires

Harrisburg, June 5 (AP)—Funeral services will be held Saturday for Charles H. Morrison, president and general manager of the Patriot company, who died yesterday of a heart attack. Burial will be in Harrisburg. Morrison, head of the company which publishes the Morning Patriot and Evening News, collapsed in his office while talking with a visitor. He was 63.

He was associated with the publishing firm for 45 years, beginning as a newspaper carrier boy in 1902. He had been general manager of the company for a year since the death of Vance C. McCormick, owner and publisher, and was advanced to the presidency, Jan. 1.

$1,000 Reward For Couple For 'Tip'

Jamestown, N. Y., June 5 (AP)—A northwestern Pennsylvania couple today were slated for a $1,000 reward for the report which brought about the discovery of the body of Dr. Robert T. Wheeler, 31-year-old Chicago flying enthusiast missing since May 25.

Henry L. McIntyre of Palo Alto, Calif., Dr. Wheeler's brother-in-law, said the reward was due Mr. and Mrs. Lee C. Zeigler of Queens Settlement, Pa., for their report that they heard a plane crash at 3 a.m. May 26.

Acting on the clue, searchers last night found Dr. Wheeler's body lying in the wreckage of the maroon and gray Stinson Voyager he had been flying home from Northampton, Mass.

John B. Hill of Dundee, Ill., the dead physician's cousin, sighted the wreckage from the air and directed a ground party to the spot.

DOUBTS IF LAW WOULD BAR REDS AS 'UNION HEADS'

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
Washington, May 5 (AP)—Senator Ball (R-Minn.) Saturday expressed "serious doubts" that Communists can be kept out of union leadership by passing a law.

The Minnesota lawmaker told a reporter that while he wants Communists routed from labor organizations "that's a job of housecleaning the unions can do best themselves."

He added he sees little chance that legislation for the purpose pending in Congress will work.

House Bill's Proviso
The Hartley labor bill already passed by the House contains a provision denying collective bargaining rights to a union if any of its officers could "reasonably be regarded" as a Communist or a Communist sympathizer.

Senator McClellan (D-Ark.) has offered the same provision as an amendment to the big labor disputes bill now before the senate.

Ball said he probably will oppose the proposal. McClellan said he intends to make a "strong" fight for it "and I know I'll get some support."

Forbade Coercion
The Senate goes back to work Monday on its omnibus measure to limit strikes and restrict union activities. Yesterday it wrote in a fresh provision in the latter category, voting 60 to 28 to forbid union coercion of workers in their selection of bargaining representatives.

Backed by 45 Republicans and 15 Southern Democrats, the amendment won enough votes to override a possible veto by President Truman. It takes a two-thirds majority to cancel a Presidential dissent. The bi-partisan supporters of the anti-coercion provision had that and one vote to spare, provided the same number were balloting on a veto and voted the same way.

The Senate probably won't reach the McClellan amendment on Communists until the latter part of next week—when Republican leaders hope to get a vote on final passage of the bill.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Lions club was held Thurs. evening at Bankert's restaurant. President Holman L. Sell presided. Speaker for the evening was Mrs. Paul M. Wimer, Westminister, correspondent for the Hanover Evening Sun. She spoke on "Printing." Mr. Wimer, a member of the Westminister Lions club was a visitor at the meeting. Swope's condition.Frank S. Ramer had a slight stroke of paralysis on Saturday evening.Mr. Harry G. Williams has been appointed Notary Public.The horseback and bicycle riding party took a ten mile ride to the country on Friday evening. On their return they were entertained by Mrs. Walter H. O'Neal, who furnished supper for the party which numbered 48. The next ride will be on the 14th inst., to some neighboring town.Large audiences witnessed the execution of the programs rendered by the pupils of the public schools on Friday afternoon. The various children took part in the exercises made a very creditable impression upon the audience. Nothing interests the children and teachers more than the occasional presence of the parents who ought to show their interest in this way, and encourage the efforts of the scholars in the pursuit of knowledge."The Little German Band" en-torn up last fall for the insertion of the water plug think it strange that the Borough authorities do not

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Courtesy Capital

Coming into Florence, S. C., recently, I discovered that something was the matter with my car and so drove into a gas station. It could have been any station, but this particular one happened to be an Esso.A young man pleasantly asked what he could do for me. And immediately his helpers responded.It was raining and the trouble had to be carried into another day. We found a comfortable cabin a few miles out, and the young man at the station gladly volunteered to take us to and from the place, until the car was set right. I learned that he had only recently purchased the station with his brothers, and that he had returned to his home town after four long years of soldiering in Europe.I noted that his rest rooms were spotless, and he had a smile for every client. It was easy to see that his greatest capital was being invested in courtesy—that invisible something that is the substance of both success and increasing dividends. Such a place is bound to attract increasing trade.Anyone can start a business on comparatively little money, so long as that business has a useful service to offer, or a useful product to sell, but there is no asset quite so important as Courtesy—for you can draw upon it without limit. In all stores there are certain clerks that people insist shall serve them, because of their Courtesy and interest.There was once a traffic officer in New York that thousands of people knew by name—Charlie Miller—who was stationed at 40th street and 5th avenue. Dozens of times I have seen him stop traffic to help an old lady or man across, who started before the light turned, but in not enough time to make the grade. And he always had a friendly greeting for everyone. He was greatly beloved.
He was rich in Courtesy. But he was hit one day, and never recovered from his injuries.No business can long endure without this. Courtesy capital in good measure. It is a prime essential. A person is in a serious mood when he asks for service, or seeks to buy something. Honest and sincere Courtesy is usually the deciding factor on the part of the customer.
And it is so easy to give it!Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Roadways."The cost of the survey was not reality today with the authorization of a survey for the project.The Pennsylvania Turnpike commission announced it has engaged Roger G. Stone, who served as chief engineer in locating the existing 150-mile turnpike route, to represent the commission in making the survey for eastern extension of about 100 miles.The four-lane express highway, with tunnels through seven mountain ridges, now connects Middlesex, near Harrisburg, and Irwin, near Pittsburgh. The toll road was constructed in 1938 at a cost of $70, 000,000, financed by a federal grant and public bond issue.

Cost Not Announced

Stone has been instructed to survey several lines for the Philadelphia extension and submit them to the commission for its action and also by Gov. James H. Duff and Ray
F. Smock, state highways secretary and an ex-officio member of the commission.The latest move for consideration of a Philadelphia extension to the turnpike followed a speech by Duff that better highway connections are needed between the commonwealth's two metropolitan areas of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.The legislature has approved turnpike extensions, both eastward to Philadelphia and westward to the Ohio or West Virginia state line.When routes for the Philadelphia link have been established and approved, the commonwealth said
"then it will be necessary for the commission to work out a plan of financing for the completion of the road."The cost of the survey was not Present routes available to traffic moving from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh (or vice versa) are illustrated in the upper map. Broken lines A, B and C in lower map show routes being suggested for extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike from Carlisle terminus, via a new bridge over Susquehanna river. The maps above show how Pennsylvania will be bisected and its $400,000,000 tourist travel industry will be channeled through the commonwealth to New Jersey, New York and New England resorts, and how Gettysburg and sports of other communities, along the free Pennsylvania primary highway system, will be by-passed, if the proposal to extend the Pennsylvania turnpike to Philadelphia becomes a reality. The plan is sponsored by the Keystone Automobile Club of Philadelphia and is being vigorously opposed by the Pennsylvania Free Roads association.

Gettysburg, the greatest single travel objective in America, will be relegated to location on secondary highway for engineers, previously surveying eastward extension of the turnpike, stated it is feasible only if it receives a 50 per cent subsidy and the assurance that parallel routes will not be modernized so as to provide competition to the toll road.

with an organ prelude, "Andante in G" (R. M. Stults), by Miss Norma Miller. After a hymn, "The Church's One Foundation," by the congregation, the invocation was given by the pastor, followed by the "Kyrie" by all. The responsive reading was led by Rev. Brumbach, after which the choir sang an anthem, "Hear My Prayer" (Charles O. Breach). Scripture reading, I Corinthians 13:1-13, was given by the pastor, followed by the "Gloria Patri" and "The Apostles' Creed" by the congregation. Rev. Brumbach offered prayer. During the offering, the male chorus sang "Kingdom Without End" (Emily E. Miller and Lee G. Kraft). Announcements and reading of the greetings followed. The congregation sang the hymn, "O For a Faith that Will Not Shrink," Rev. Brumbach spoke on "The Ministry of Christ Church." He ended with a prayer, after the congregation chanted "The Lord's Prayer."

Receive Altar Cross
A 24-inch brass altar cross with an applied I.H.S. monogram, in memory of Andrew Schrieber, Jr., and his wife Anna Maria Schrieber, first permanent settlers of Adams county (1734) and member of Christ church (1747), was unveiled by James Eby Kroh and Ann Elizabeth Kroh, children of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth K. Kroh, Littlestown, descendants of Andrew Schrieber. Presentation and acceptance of the cross by the pastor followed the unveiling.

The inscription on the three steps of the base of the cross is as follows: "To the Glory of God and Sacred to the Memory of Andrew Schrieber (1712-1797) and Anna Maria Schrieber (1710-1801). First Permanent Settlers of Adams Co., Pa. (1734) and Members of this Church (1747). Presented to Christ Reformed Church, May 4th, 1947, by James Eby Kroh and Ann Elizabeth Kroh."

The Memorial Cross was dedicated, and the renovated auditorium was re-dedicated by the pastor, after which a soprano solo, "Bless This House" (Helen Taylor and May H. Brahe), was sung by Peggy M. Moyer, Philadelphia, a member of the choir of Bloomsburg Reformed church, formerly served by Rev. Brumbach. The closing hymn, "Faith of our Fathers," was then sung.

Benediction was pronounced by Dr. Paul Gerhard, Lancaster. The choir sang the "Triple Amen." The postlude, "Song of Triumph" (James H. Rogers) was played by Miss Miller.

Check to Pastor
Elder Harry C. Wildasin, in the name of the congregation, through the consistory, presented the pastor with a check of $425, in recognition of services rendered in connection with the anniversary celebration. The pastor responded with appropriate remarks. The Sunday school presented Rev. and Mrs. Brumbach and daughter Audrey with a basket of flowers. Fifty one-dollar bills were used to make the green leaves for the flowers.

Four daughters of pastors of Christ church present at the service, were: Mrs. Paul Gerhard, Lancaster, and Mrs. James Mullian, daughters of Rev. John Ault; Mrs. Florence Lindaman Miller, daughter of Rev. F. S. Lindaman, and Miss Audrey Ellen Brumbach, daughter of the present pastor, Dr. Gerhard and Mrs. Gerhard were missionaries to Japan and were on furlough at the beginning of the war, and were not allowed to return. They worked for the Mission Board in this country. For the past year Dr. Gerhard has been assistant at the First Reformed church, Los Angeles. Present also were Miss Gertrude B. Hoy, Lancaster, granddaughter of Reverend Dr. Ault, who was a missionary to China; and Mrs. John W. Ault, of Lancaster, a daughter-in-law of Reverend Ault. At the close of the service, Dr. and Mrs. Gerhard, Mrs. Mullian, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Ault stood in the chancel with the pastor and were greeted by friends and members of the church. Approximately 600 visitors signed the registration books during the anniversary services.

the court will not tolerate any unseemly conduct."

Says Pair Intoxicated

In answer to a question from chief defense counsel Thomas Caldwell, as to whether Staley and Simmons were "visibly and definitely under the influence of liquor," Mrs. Herring said: "Yes."

Mrs. Ernest Lupp, 228 Baltimore street, with whom Mrs. Herring lives, testified that during conversation in her home that evening she had complained of being "broke" and had asked in a "kidding" way: "What do you get for sticking up a bank?" She quoted Simmons as then saying to Staley "we ought to take her along with us." She said Simmons was "not too steady" and that "anyone could tell they'd been drinking" when they left the Lupp home after 11 o'clock.

She also told of Staley returning to her home and of asking for his sister about a 1 a. m. the next morning. His clothes were wet, Mrs. Lupp said, adding that the pair had been riding in the rain with the top down on their convertible auto. The sister was not home, Mrs. Herring testified, and before much more was developed on that line a defense objection and a sidebar conference ended questions on that phase of the evening.

First witness on the stand Saturday afternoon was Corporal Lodewick Jenkins of the state police, prosecutor in the case. He identified Humpert's lantern, eyeglasses, the claw hammer used in the slaying and other Commonwealth exhibits and told the circumstances under which each was found.

He said the hammer was shown to Simmons at the Adams county jail after his arrest and he quoted Simmons as having said: "Oh, hell, that looks like the hammer I hit Humpert with."

Private James Walsh, who shared in the state police investigation of the case, corroborated the previous witness' statement about the hammer identification at the jail.

Christian H. Baumberger, state police laboratory technician, testified he found human blood on three of four burlap sacks found in the entry where Mr. Humpert's body was found the evening of March 26.

Asked For Directions

Robert Swope, South street, Gettysburg, who said he was cutting wood in an M. E. Knouse orchard on the edge of Bendersville the afternoon of March 24, testified that Staley drove to the orchard with another man in the car and that Staley asked Swope where Humpert lived. Swope said he did not know and passed the question along to his companion, Ryland Wright, of Quaker Valley.

Mr. Wright was called next and testified that he directed Staley to the Humpert farm by way of Mt. Tabor and Gardners.

Betty Clouse, 16, a neighbor of Mr. Humpert told of having seen a "strange" car pass her home three times the afternoon of March 24 with two men in it. Once the top was down and on the second trip it was up, she said. Miss Clouse lives along the road that passes the Humpert farm.

Identifies Repaired Boots

F. A. Baum, a Mechanicsburg shoe repairman identified a pair of leather-soled knee boots as those Simmons brought to his shop for half soles and heels March 25. The soles were not badly worn, he said, "but plenty of people get shoes fixed that are the same way," he added.

William C. Imhoff, a gas station attendant in Camp Hill, said Simmons and Staley came to his establishment between midnight and 3 a.m. March 25 and Simmons asked permission to wash his car there as he often had done before.

Simmons' right hand was discolored, Imhoff testified, but he said Simmons explained it by saying he and his buddy "had licked two state cops." If anyone inquired where Simmons had been that evening, Imhoff said he had been told to say that he (Simmons) had been working on his car at the gas station.

Discards Old Tires

Simmons returned March 26, Imhoff said, and asked Imhoff "what he thought of my four new tires." Imhoff explained that Simmons had said he had thrown away his old tires "so the state police wouldn't get the evidence." On cross-examination Imhoff said he had not noticed that either Staley or Simmons was intoxicated although he smelled liquor on their breaths.

Spencer McKinney was recalled briefly and said he and Mr. Humpert had been neighbors for 39 years and that Humpert had lived alone since the death of a sister 13 years ago.

Percy H. Gardner, Gardners R. 1, who cared for Humpert's livestock after their owner was found dead, said the haybale above where Humpert's body was found was packed tightly with hay.

After a long sidebar conference on pictures offered by the Commonwealth, Judge W. C. Sheely announced he was admitting one picture of the body to show its position but specially warned the jury against allowing the picture to "in-flame your minds against the defendant."

Reveals Past Record

Mrs. Marian Lutz, Columbia, deputy clerk of the courts of Lancaster county, read from Lancaster court records that in 1944 Simmons had pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy to commit a robbery and had been placed on probation for two years.

Miss E. Marie James, deputy clerk station early on Tuesday morning to wash it.

Simmons testified that he had been married to Beverly Wynn for two years and that the marriage was broken up largely because of interference by the parents on both sides.

On cross examination, he admitted that his wife "went out once" with a former "boy friend" who had returned from the Navy, and that he was drinking, and "struck at her." His wife obtained the divorce, he said, but he did not know on what grounds.

"I didn't drink for two years, except twice, after I met Beverly and got married," Simmons said. "After we broke up, I started again."

Learned of Death in Papers

There was nothing unusual about washing his car between 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning, Simmons said, and he had done it frequently.

"When did you first learn of the death of Humpert?" Caldwell asked.

"March 27," was the reply. "I saw Bob (Staley) that night and he was telling me about reading in the paper that Humpert was dead. He told me that I hit him. (Humpert.)"

Simmons said he bought his new tires the next night, (March 28.) He said he owned a claw hammer similar to the one the state contends he used to strike Humpert, but that he bought it in Mechanicsburg, and had his initials "R.S." burned on the handle.

Denies Statement

"Is this hammer offered in evidence, your hammer?" Caldwell asked.

"No," Simmons replied.

The statement he was alleged to have made to state troopers, upon being shown a hammer, that: "Hell, it looks like my hammer," was never made, he said. He testified further that he used his hammer after March 24 in putting new license plates on his car and his father's truck.

Simmons testified that he was arrested April 1 at his home about 9:30 a. m., that he had had no breakfast, and that he was given nothing to eat at all that day at the state police lockup in Harrisburg, and that he was placed in a cell, "after they brought Staley in, which didn't even have water in it."

Denies Sharing Loot

Simmons said he had no recollection of hitting Humpert, and he denied that he ever got any money except $5 Staley paid him to drive to Gettysburg to see Staley's sister.

"How much money did you get?" he was asked by Caldwell.

"I didn't get any."

"I told them that I got $65 because Staley said to keep our stories straight, that that was what he had told them," Simmons said.

Caldwell read from the alleged confession: "I changed the heels on my shoes so the police could not track me," and asked: "Did you say it?"

"No," Simmons replied.

"Were they your words?"

"I don't think so."

The question was repeated, and Simmons said, "No sir, they were not."

Simmons further testified that when he was taken to the Humpert farm, police and the district attorney "suggested" many of the answers to questions.

"Don't Know If I Was There"

On cross examination, Simmons admitted that his operation while in the Marines was for a hernia which he had had before entering the service.

"You were all on the Commonwealth's side," Simmons said, when asked by District Attorney Yake if he had not been given free opportunity to "tell all."

"Why didn't you tie up this old man if you had to get his money, instead of killing him?" Yake shot at the witness.

"I don't know if we were there or not, so how can I answer the question?" Simmons retorted.

"Did you tell your ex-wife that you hit him?"

Staley Hears Simmons

"I told her I was told that I hit him."

Staley was brought into court this morning and heard Simmons' testimony. At one point in the interrogation, he was asked to rise and be identified by Simmons.

Simmons said Staley planned to go to Colorado or Texas, and told him he wanted to see Humpert to get him "to help him out." Simmons said Staley told him Humpert had helped out Staley's brother. He denied, on cross examination, knowing that Staley's brother had robbed Humpert.

Jurors not serving on the Simmons case who reported today were excused this morning until Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock.

of the Dauphin county courts, testified Simmons had pleaded guilty there in 1945 to a robbery charge and had been placed on probation for three years after jail sentence was suspended.

The court warned the jury that this criminal record against Simmons could not be used in determining his guilt or innocence on the murder count but can be considered only in arriving at the penalty in event they find him guilty of murder in the first degree.

The courtroom was packed for the Saturday sessions.

ert home to "get some money." Simmons said Staley had suggested they could get $5,000 from the elderly farmer. In answer to a question as to whether Simmons had believed the old man had $3,000 cash about the house, the statement quoted Simmons as saying: "No, I did not believe there would be that much."

The statement told how the two had driven through the northern section of the county while Staley questioned several persons as to where Humpert resided, and of finally finding the Humpert home.

Asked For Jack
According to the statement, the pair had then driven to Gettysburg where they met Staley's sister, had some drinks and then returned to the Humpert home.

There "Bob knocked on the door. Then I heard Bob tell him he was somebody from somewhere and that he had had a flat tire and had a girl with him and wanted to fix the tire so he could get home and that he needed a jack."

"After a little while Humpert came out. He had a lantern with him. He came out the door we had knocked at. I was standing back on the porch and I had the hammer with me. I am not sure whether I had the hammer in my right hand or in a pocket."

Simmons' statement described how the trio walked toward the barn, with Humpert leading, Simmons following him and Staley in back of Simmons. Simmons then told that "I grabbed him and he grabbed at me and I hit him. I don't know if I hit him with my fist or with the hammer. He went down and the lantern fell and went out."

Hit Him On Head
Staley, Simmons' statement asserted, went back to the house while Simmons "hit the old man several times." Staley came back to where Humpert and Simmons were struggling, according to the statement, and said the house was locked. Simmons' statement said, "I reached into his pocket and got the key out and gave it to Staley. The old man said something like 'take the key.'"

Previously Simmons' statement described how the old man had said "something like 'don't, don't'" while Simmons "hit him about the head someplace."

Simmons' statement quoted him as saying that he left Humpert in a sitting position, returned to the house, helped Staley look for money, and how the pair left "in a hurry" after finding a pocketbook. Later he described how they got rid of the hammer and other articles and finally divided the loot, at Mechanicsburg, Simmons said that he received $65.

"I Was Intoxicated"
The statement quoted Simmons as saying "I was intoxicated very much," at the time the crime occurred "but I want what's coming to me. If I was sober I would not have done it. When I was married I went as straight as any of you, but my parents forced us apart and I began drinking again."

Senate Gets Turn Today At OK On Compromise Labor Bill; Passed House 320-79

BELIEVE HOUSE WOULD UPSET
TRUMAN VETO

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

Washington, June 5 (P)—Senators step up today for their turn at approving the compromise labor bill that rode a rock-crusher vote to passage in the House.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said there was a chance the Senate ballot might go over until tomorrow. It depends, he said, on how many people want to speak how long.

Once the vote comes, the bill goes to the White House, where some key Democrats expect a veto.

No Doubt Of Passage

There is no doubt about Senate passage. The only question is whether the vote will turn up a margin indicating that Congress will veto a veto. That takes a two-to-one majority in both branches.

The House score late yesterday was better than four to one—320 to 79. Chairman Hartley (R-NJ) of the House labor committee grinned to a reporter: "I told you so!"

Taft, who heads the Senate labor committee, struck by a prediction that the bill will become law regardless of a veto. Senator Ball (R-Minn) said he also is confident the Senate will reject a veto, if one comes.

Say Veto Won't "Stick"

But Senator Pepper (D-Fla) told a reporter it will be "very close" on that issue. He said he looks for some Democrats to switch over to supporting President Truman "on the basis of a strong veto message, the logic of which would be persuasive." Such a message also might pull away some of those who voted in the House for the labor bill. But even the Democratic leadership there says a veto will be overridden.

At yesterday's nose counting, Democrats backed the compromise 103 to 86, Republicans 217 to 12. The one American-Laborite Rep. Marcantonio of New York, was against the bill.

The final 320 to 79 tally compares with the 308-to-107 vote by which the House passed its own Labor bill in mid-April.

Its Provisions
The compromise, blending together the original House bill and another approved by the Senate, 68 to 24, among other things would:

Bar some kinds of strikes entirely and give the government authority to use court orders to stop "national paralysis" strikes, as in the coal or steel industry, during 80 days of mediation.

Forbid the closed shop, which compels an employer to hire only union workers.

Allow law suits against unions for breaking contracts.

Bar unions from keeping non-strikers off the job by mass or violent picketing.

Deny collective bargaining rights to unions if any official can "reasonably be regarded" as a communist or sympathizer.

New Constitution
For State Urged

Harrisburg, June 5 (P)—The general assembly was called upon today to adopt a bill proposing a constitutional amendment to draw up a new constitution for the commonwealth.

A bill setting up machinery for the proposed change was introduced in the Senate last night by Sen. Burton E. Tarr (D-Payette), who termed it a "historic piece of legislation." Tarr said the need of changes in Pennsylvania's form of government has been demonstrated during the current legislative session "because we often are called upon to vote on things which we aren't sure are constitutional."

The bill was referred to committee.

WRECKED PLANE

Endeavor, Pa., June 5 (P)—Dr. Robert W. Wheeler, 31-year-old Chicago psychiatrist missing the last 10 days, was found dead in his crashed-up plane last night on a rugged mountainside overlooking Queens settlement.

Dr. Wheeler was last seen May 25 when, on the way home from a trip to Northampton, Mass., he set his plane down at Rochester, N. Y., for refueling.

The body and plane were identified by a brother-in-law, Henry L. McIntyre, and a cousin, John D. Hill, both of Chicago, who led a group of 50 searchers up the mountain to the scene of the crash. Hill had spotted the wrecked plane earlier when he flew his own machine over the area.

Ran Out of Gas

The tip which led to finding the body came from a Queens settlement resident who reported to Morris Rhoades, Forest county coroner, that a plane had circled the Queens gas compressing station several

Tobacco Chewing Pays Off For Mike

Pittsburgh, June 5 (P)—Old Mike Podolyak chewed happily on his omnipresent wad of tobacco today, knowing that his defense of the right to chew was not in vain.

Mike, 67, sought unemployment compensation the other day on the ground that he had quit his job as a dishwasher in a downtown restaurant because he wouldn't give up chewing tobacco.

He didn't get the compensation, times about 3 a. m. May 26. Rhoades said the plane, out of gas, had crashed into a mountainside. He speculated that Dr. Wheeler, in circling the well-lighted compressing station, had been seeking a place to land.

Twenty-five airplanes, including eight army ships, had combed the northwestern Pennsylvania hills for more than a week. A $1,000 reward had been offered for information of Dr. Wheeler's fate.

Dr. Wheeler had flown to Northampton to visit his fiancée, Joyce Kinsey of Perryburg, Ohio, a Smith college senior.

The body, taken last night by ambulance to the Emergency Search headquarters at Jamestown, N. Y., was to be returned to Chicago for funeral services and burial.

but his ex-boss gave him another job—as a night watchman—with permission to chew "to his heart's content." And a tobacco company rewarded him for his faith in their product with a whole carton of the stuff.

A new type of experimental animal, the cotton rat, is being used in studies of food consumption in relation to tooth decay.

WOULD SEAL MINES

Harrisburg, June 5 (P)—Legislation to provide sealing of the commonwealth's abandoned coal mines as a stream pollution preventive is before the House Mines committee. Without a dissenting vote the Senate last night adopted a measure setting up provisions for the program.

geles zoo, second largest in the United States, and several views of the sunset on the Pacific ocean. At this point the Mea's chorus sang "Liberty's Creation," followed by the third reel of pictures which consisted of views of Arizona, New Mexico, the Bok Tower at Lake Wales, Florida, Silver Springs with its glass-bottom boats, the Cypress Gardens near Orlando, Fla., and the orange groves of Florida.

During the receiving of the offering a piano duet was played by Mrs. McCauslin and Mrs. Bushey. The final reel of pictures centered around views of Florida and included the trailer camp where Mr. and Mrs. Ziegler made their headquarters while in Florida, alligator farms, Daytona Beach and several beautiful gardens in the central part of Florida. Views of the Italian gardens in Harrisburg and Niagara Falls completed the reel. The program closed with the men's chorus singing "Day Is Dying in the West," followed by the benediction pronounced by Rev. Frantz.

The program was sponsored by the Church School class, taught by Dale E. Knouse. An offering of $100 was received for the benefit of the building fund of the church. The committee on arrangements consisted of Dale Knouse, Clair Taylor, Ralph Heckenluber, Charles Ziegler and the Rev. M. R. Frantz.

Keefe, some library dues from the library and some club money from the home economics and nurses' rooms.

Borough police are investigating the crime. The thief apparently broke a glass window in a door to enter the office of Doctor Keefe. The door to the office was locked over the week-end.

HOUSE SLATES VOTE TODAY ON TEACHERS' PAY

Harrisburg, June 5 (AP)—House Republican leaders slated a vote today on a much revised school pay bill in a race with the Senate to establish a new $1,950 to $4,000 salary scale for teachers outside of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Rep. Herbert P. Sorg, House Republican leader, announced action will be taken on the amended Sollenberger-Stuart measure—known to teachers as 417—as the Senate moved nearer a vote its own school bill with the same pay scale but two fewer mandated service increases a notch.

The race between the two Republican-dominated branches developed with the revival and revision yesterday of 417 a day after a new bill embodying an agreement reached by Senate and House education committee members was offered in the upper branch.

Proponents of both measures insisted their programs were within the $48,000,000 limit set by Gov. James H. Duff on additional state funds for education.

Other prime developments on the rapidly changing school front were:
1. Approval by GOP House members of an administration measure to broaden the taxing powers of school boards and other taxing bodies following the measure's revision to eliminate "double taxation" by enactment of wage taxes both by communities where workers live and where they are employed.

2. Referral to the Senate appropriations committee for action on a $500,000 allocation, to a proposed new state tax equalization board with powers to determine market values of real estate to be used in the allotment of state school subsidies starting in 1948.

3. Introduction in the Senate of a bill to allow Philadelphia and Pittsburgh school boards to impose a two- to four-mill personal property tax for education purposes and approval by committee of permissive legislation for a $1 to $5 per capita school tax in Pittsburgh.

The tax broadening measure, included by Governor Duff in his education program, was slated for a final House vote Monday after earlier attempts by GOP leaders to obtain caucus support for the controversial proposal were rebuffed.

It would permit all municipalities except counties, second class townships and the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh school districts to levy wage, sales or amusement taxes in lieu of new imposts on real estate.

Rep. Charles H. Brunner, Jr., (R-Montgomery), co-sponsor, said the amendments adopted yesterday despite Democratic opposition would give communities where wage-earners reside the priority on wage taxes, except in the case of Philadelphia.

but persons paying such levies on their home towns would also be required to pay any difference if wage tax rates in the places they are employed are greater.

"Vicious Assault"
Describing the proposal as "one of the most vicious, wide-sweeping assaults on the payrolls of this state that has ever been presented in this House," Rep. H. G. Andrews, House minority leader, sought in vain to bar all but cities from using the new taxing authority.

Chairman D. Raymond Sollenberger (R-Blair) of the House education committee, meanwhile said there was "absolutely no change" in his bill as revised from the House and Senate agreement of a week ago.

Amended to reduce the $2,400-$5,000 scale originally proposed to $1,950-$4,000—the present one is $1,400-$3,500—the bill would raise the mandated proportion of the scale for standard certificated teachers from $2,400 to $2,700 with corresponding boosts for those with degrees. At the same time, optional merit boosts were decreased by the same amount.

NORTHEY MAKES CARDINAL DEBUT WITH 2 HOMERS

(By The Associated Press)

It began to look today like wise old Sam Bredon, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, had been reading up on Redbird pennant history when he made that Harry Walker-Northey deal with the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday.

If he did thumb the baseball record books he probably discovered that nearly every year the Cards won a flag, they were aided by a refugee from Philadelphia who had joined the club earlier in the season.

Northey, a hard-hitting outfielder, made a brilliant debut yesterday when he slugged two home runs and a single and batted in four runs to lead the Cards to a 9-0 victory in the second game of a double header with the Braves at Boston.

Northey's big bat plus powerful shutout pitching by Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, 1946 World Series hero, was chiefly responsible for the snapping of a nine-game losing streak by the Cards. The Braves had hung the ninth straight defeat on the Redbirds by coming from behind with a four-run seventh inning to nip them 4-3 in the opener.

In the only other National league games, the Phillies clouted Cincinnati twice, 5-3, and 10-5 to dump the Reds into seventh place while taking over fifth themselves.

Bobby Feller discovered that even he can't work with only one day's rest. The great Cleveland right-hander, who last Friday blanked the Boston Red Sox with only one hit, was rushed in by Manager Lou Boudreau to protect a one-run lead in the seventh inning against Washington. But the Nats climbed all over him for four runs to win 6-3 and hung a defeat on Feller. They also ended Bob's skein of 29 consecutive scoreless innings. The second game of the scheduled double header at Cleveland was postponed because of rain.

The Chicago White Sox increased their American league lead to a game and a half by winning two squeakers from the Philadelphia Athletics 8-7 and 1-0.

Showing a semblance of their '46 form, the Red Sox swept a double header from the Browns at St. Louis 3-2 and 8-1. Tommy Fine, 29-year-old Texas rookie, pitched five-hit ball to win his first major league game in the nightcap. Bobby Doerr, with a double and a two-run homer accounted for all Boston's runs in the opener. He scored on two fly balls.

Detroit and the New York Yankees played a 2-2 tie at Briggs Stadium in a game ended by rain at the end of six innings. Hal Newhouser was leading 2-1 when Joe DiMaggio belted for a double in the sixth inning and scored the tying run on a single by Snuffy Stirrweiss.

Rain washed out the scheduled contest between Chicago and New York at the Polo Grounds and Pittsburgh and Brooklyn at Ebbets Field.

WASHINGTON IS CENTER OF VAST SCIENCE EFFORT

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 5 (AP)—You may not have thought of it that way but Washington is the world's science capital.

This city is the center of great scientific activity although the noise of the politicians and lawmakers drowns out the quiet scientists.

Yet, you could rubberneck around Washington a good while and still not see the work in science being done here.

Since World War I Washington has become more and more a scientific center. It spurred into first place under the drive of World War II.

Treasury of Science

The Washington Post, recently speaking of the scientific growth of the city, said: "Growth has been topsy-like—a cyclothrone here, a wind-tunnel there, medical research laboratories somewhere else, until you look about and suddenly realize that your own backyard is a treasury of scientific endeavor."

Probably more scientific organizations, including some of the largest, have their headquarters here than in any other one city. For example:

The American Association for the Advancement of Science, with more than 32,000 members all over the world; the National Academy of Sciences, with a membership of 350 top scientists; the American Chemical Society; American Psychological Society, and so on.

Uncle Sam Busy
The government, with its fingers in many pies, is doing most of the scientific work here.

The biggest non-governmental outfit is the Carnegie Institution of Washington which operates a great cyclotron, used in atomic research. Here are some of the government centers:

The National Institute of Health—it investigates the causes of disease, and ways to prevent them.

The National Cancer Institute—it's doing research in cancer.

The Agricultural Research Center—its great acres, just outside Washington are a swarm of scientific experiments with plants and animals.

Bureau of Standards
Army Medical department's research and graduate school—among other things, it is investigating tropical diseases.

The National Bureau of Standards—it's one of the principal research and testing laboratories of the government in all kinds of fields, such as chemistry, physics, engineering, weights, measures, temperatures.

The U. S. Weather Bureau.
The Naval Observatory—its work is of utmost importance to aviation, ocean navigation and, in some ways, to industry.

The government is doing research here on guns, mines, torpedoes, and weapons like rockets that can travel faster than sound.

Then there's the Food and Drug Administration, which makes continuing studies of food and drugs to see they're labeled right.

The list is long.

TO QUIZ STEEL OFFICIALS ON SALES POLICIES

Washington, June 5 (AP)—A Senate subcommittee planned to question officials of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Company of Pittsburgh today about their sales policies and to decide the future course of its steel investigation.

George F. Meredith, executive director of the committee staff, said the group wanted to ask company representatives whether the firm is giving up some markets "as reports of our investigators indicate they are."

Frank A. Duerr, general manager of the Troop-Water Heater company of Pittsburgh, testified yesterday that he may be forced to close his range boiler plant because Jones and Laughlin is "withdrawing from the sheet steel market."

Duerr said he had been unable to find another regular source of supply because the large steel producers are "committed to supplying their old customers." He has dealt with Jones and Laughlin for about ten years, Duerr said.

Chairman Martin (R-Pa.) called a closed-door afternoon session (1:30 p. m. EST), to map future plans for the inquiry.

Meredith said the staff of attorneys working with the group recommends that the investigation, heretofore concerned primarily with the difficulties small businessmen have had in obtaining steel, be broadened to survey the entire industry.

He said he suggests that it study

New Oxford

New Oxford—The infant daughter of Harold and Marcella Alwine Martenas has been named Sandra Alora.

A large tree at the front of the former Taughinbaugh property east of town was cracked near its base and felled during the severe storm of Thursday afternoon. Other trees in this area were damaged by wind and lightning.

New roofing has been applied to the farmhouse on the Becker place west of here.

A group of recent graduates of the 1947 class of the New Oxford high school have returned from their class trip to New York, making the trip by bus and visiting points of interest in New York city and vicinity. Mr. and Mrs. J. Faber Wildasin and H. Edgar Moul chaperoned the group.

The local Lions club conducted its regular meeting during the past week at the Cross Keys diner, east of town.

Among the class receiving degrees from West Chester State Teachers' college last week was Miss Fern E. Moul, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Moul, near here, and a teacher at the local high school since her completion of the West Chester course in the winter. Miss Moul is a graduate of the New Oxford high school.

The Misses Susan Himes and Edna McKnight entertained the local Garden club at their home Tuesday evening.

Miss Anna Catherine Alwine, who was recently graduated from the nursing school of the University of the productive capacity of the steel industry and whether it is sufficient "to support an expanding economy."

Pennsylvania, of Philadelphia, has been spending several weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy E. Alwine. Another daughter, Ethel Alwine Bean, with her husband, Eugene Bean, who had been spending some time in California, are also guests at the Alwine home.

Mrs. Curtis S. Sponseller was hostess to the Ladies' Aid society of the First Lutheran church at her home Tuesday evening.

The local high school band presented a concert on Sunday at Forest park, near Hanover.

Miss Eva C. Haar, near town, will review the book "India, at the Threshold" by L. Winifred Bryce, this evening at Emmanuel Reformed church, Abbotstown, where there will be a meeting of the Women's Guild of that church and the New Oxford Reformed church.

NOW SHE SHOPS "CASH AND CARRY"
Without Painful Backache
Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it causes nagging backache, rheumatism, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 60 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Expect To Renew Ryder Cup Series

Philadelphia, June 5 (AP)—It may take until November but the British are coming in an attempt to atone for their Walker cup defeat and the humiliation of an all-American final in the British amateur golf championship.

Big Ed Dudley, president of the Professional Golf association says the Ryder cup golf matches between the United States and Britain will be renewed this year if at all possible despite reports to the contrary. The British, Dudley declared, have advised him they won't be able to make it for Ryder cup competition before late November because of a heavy schedule.

The U. S. won the cup, donated by Samuel Ryder, British sportsman, by defeating the British team at Southport, England, in 1937.

Competition for the prize was scheduled in 1939 in Florida but war interrupted the play.

Melrose Park, Pa., (AP)—Seven-year-old "Butch" Lemon was poking around the cellar and came across some old writings by his father, Dr. Neil Lemon, and delivered them from door-to-door in his neighborhood. The papers told parents how to care for children convalescing from tonsillectomies.

BATTERED AND JAILED AFTER FAG ARGUMENT

Norman Rosenberger, Gettysburg R. 2, who is alleged to have "started an argument" over a carton of cigarettes, and ended in the Warner hospital here with numerous cuts and bruises as the result of a "beating" administered by his next door neighbor, Merle Sanders, was held for court following a hearing before Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore this morning. He was re-committed to jail in default of $500 bail.

Sanders filed two charges against Rosenberger, surety of the peace, and pointing a gun. The surety of the peace charge was withdrawn, and the hearing held on the gun charge. A charge of assault and battery, filed by Rosenberger against Sanders, before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder, was also dropped today.

Lived In Trailer
Rosenberger lives in a trailer next to Sanders' home, the testimony showed. Sanders said he met Rosenberger in the Fairfield hotel on the afternoon of May 24. Rosenberger asked for a ride home, he said, and Sanders said he was going to a ball game and would pick him up after the game. He said he went back to the hotel, got Rosenberger and then drove to the home of his father-in-law, George Jenkins, where, Sanders said, Rosenberger got into an argument over the cigarettes.

Jenkins had agreed to obtain a carton for Rosenberger, but they were not the right brand, according to the story as it was unfolded by Sanders. Sanders stepped in and hit Rosenberger, he admitted and "rolled him off the porch." Then Sanders, his wife and five children, and Rosenberger, got into the Sanders car and started for home.

Cites Gun Incident
As Rosenberger got out of the car, he asked Sanders to go over to the trailer with him. Inside the trailer, Sanders said, Rosenberger reached for a .22 calibre pistol hanging in a rack, started to raise it, and said "I've got you, you're going to get it now." Sanders said he struck Rosenberger several times in the trailer and again as he was taking him to Gettysburg.

"I beat him until he let loose of the gun," he said.
Rosenberger exhibited a marked loss of memory concerning the events to which Sanders had testified. "I didn't have what you called a right mind," he said, and "I lost my senses when he knocked me off the porch. It made me coo-coo. I don't remember anything 'till the next morning in the hospital."

On the charge of pointing the gun, Rosenberger said: "I don't know whether I pointed the gun or not. Hard to tell."

Rosenberger has been in jail since the charge was filed by Sanders May 28.

Continue Study Of Play Program Here

Representatives from a number of local organizations met Wednesday night at the fire engine house with officials seeking to secure a year round recreational program for the community to discuss the possibility of granting funds toward establishment of the program.

Dr. Lloyd C. Keefe, superintendent of schools, explained how under state law a full time recreational director could be secured whose salary would be partially paid by the state.

The lodge representatives present Wednesday seemed enthusiastic concerning the plan, according to Doctor Keefe. If sufficient funds can be raised to employ a trained recreational supervisor a number of programs on a year around scale will be presented.

Here And There

News Collected At Random

"A first rate biography" is what Elizabeth Stine calls Elsie Singmaster Lewars' newest book, "I Speak For Thaddeus Stevens," in her review of the volume in Sunday's book review section of The Philadelphia Bulletin.

The following is the reviewer's opinion of the book:

"The heart of Pennsylvania beats in this biography by the distinguished Elsie Singmaster. To all Pennsylvanians, and especially to those who have sojournd in the beautiful Cumberland Valley, this book is a gallery of familiar landscapes painted by an artist. She brings her powers of authorship to a peak in the history of Thaddeus Stevens, 'Pennsylvania's adopted son who fought unrelentingly against slavery with the tongue of an adder, the wiles of the serpent, and the mockery of an astute politician. The book is a living portrait and a vindication."

"Gettysburg, as everyone knows, is the author's home, and Pennsylvania and Revolutionary history and folk-lore, her specialty. The fact that Stevens sought and succeeded in establishing himself in her home town; the spur which slander, flung continuously at a man in public life and the fascinating research material and topography close at hand are the contributing factors which make this subject tailor made for Miss Singmaster."

"Reading her exciting presentation of his life, one thinks at once of another Pennsylvanian."

The Cardinal camp will be in charge of C. H. "Pop" Kelchner, and will be designed to give young men between the ages of 17 and 23 in this section some baseball training. In addition, it was stated, there is a possibility that some young men, who may appear to be excellent baseball players, may be selected by the Cardinals to play with their system.

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg college, has given permission for the training to be given on the college field. The St. Louis Cardinals will insure the youths while they are taking part in the "school" against any injury that might occur.

318 GRADERS PASS TEST FOR H.S.; 25 FLUNK

Three hundred and eighteen eighth grade students in Adams county passed the annual high school entrance examination held May 24, the county superintendent of school's office announced today.

Completion of grading of the papers Wednesday disclosed that 25 of the 343 students who took the test had failed to pass.

The highest grade recorded was that of Carole Content Koons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Koons, York Springs, and a student in the Latimore township schools. Her mark, 368, was said by the county office to be the highest made by any student during the past several years. The total possible points to be made in the test is 400.

15 Receive "A"

Only 15 of the students received "A." To obtain an "A" the youngsters had to score between 324 and 371 points.

Three Conewago township students, Barbara Ann Bollinger with a 348; Betty Jane Smith, with a 329 and Beatrice Ardella Snyder with 343 were awarded the coveted "A" mark. The township had the largest number of "A" students of any district in the county.

East Berlin had two "A" students, Donald Edward Danner, with 331 and James Wayne Shetter with 328. Each of the following districts also had one student able to secure an "A" mark: Cumberland, Marilyn Ann Felix, 341; Franklin, Dorothy Ann Wetzel, 348; Germany, Doris C. Poorest showing made by any township in the test was Highland. Of the three students from that township who passed the test, none was able to score better than a "D."

The number of students passing the test were: from Abbottstown, six; Arendtsville, seven; Butler township, one; Conewago township, 22; Cumberland, 17; East Berlin, 13; Fairfield, three; Franklin township, 25; Freedom township, six; Germany township, 16; Hamilton township, three; Hamiltonban township, 28; Highland township, three; Huntingdon township, 21; Latimore township, 23; Liberty township, 10; Littlestown, 30; Menallen township, seven; Mt. The number of old cases on record," he said, "have declined due to treatment. During the past six years the number of congenital cases on record in Pennsylvania has dropped 50 per cent. The percentage of admissions to mental institutions has also declined," he said.

Commissioners Plan To Transfer Jail Inmates; Consider Prison Unsafe

The Adams county commissioners left this afternoon for Harrisburg to confer with Dauphin county officials relative to transferring Adams county prisoners to that jail until adequate provisions are made for their safe-keeping here. They may also confer with York county officials.

The Adams county jail is in such condition that the cost of repairing it will almost equal the cost of a new building.

That was the report made to the Adams County commissioners by two contractors, A. Carl Warner of Waynesboro, and Nevaeh Crouse, Littlestown, after they had inspected the cell block and sheriff's quarters Wednesday afternoon.

They were agreed that to repair the jail, replace worn out beams, replace the present wall, and in general reconstruct the structure as it stands would cost a minimum of $65,000.

When it was pointed out by C. T. Woutersz, inspector for the Department of Welfare, Bureau of Corrections, who had conducted the contractors through the jail, that the department in all likelihood would not approve any repairs which do not do away with the present "dungeon" type cells the contractors increased their minimum estimate for renovation to "around $100,000."

New Jail at $120,000

To put in a new cell block will cost $100,000 or more, they estimated. Previous bids for a new jail at a new site placed the cost at about $120,000.

To make repairs to the present structure would cost, at a minimum, $12,000 for a new concrete wall 20 feet high, $45,000 for repairs to the cell block and $8,000 for repairs to the sheriff's quarters, according to their report.

Asked his opinion on what should be done by the commissioners, Mr. Woutersz said he would "put himself out on a limb" and suggested that the commissioners "think of the problem not as one referring just to today, but one in which the future is taken into consideration."

"When you reconstruct or build a jail you are doing something that will stand for decades. As my own personal opinion I would say that the best thing to do is to anticipate any future changes that may be needed."

Keep Prisoners Busy

"The trend in jail construction today is toward establishment of some occupations for the prisoners. It has been found that prisoners who are busy and active do not cause trouble. When they have nothing to do all day but sit around thinking up ways to cause the sheriff annoyance the situation is bound to become bad."

"There is a bill in the legislature to revamp the entire penal set-up and it would be well to consider the possibility that it might pass, perhaps not by this legislature but some future one."

"If you look at the situation as it stands today you might spend a lot of money repairing and renovating and then have to spend a lot more a few years from now making changes to meet new requirements of law. I believe it would be best to provide now for what seems almost certain to come in the future."

Plan Work Shops

"Thus it would be well to provide extra cells where work program shops could be placed. It would be well to plan storage rooms for equipment where it could be locked up. A broom makes a handy weapon in case of a riot, as all prisoners know. I like the idea behind your original plans for building the jail on the county farm property so that the prisoners could help on the farm under proper supervision. That way you would be realizing some return on the prisoners and at the same time give them a work program that will help them. A man who lies around during his prison term leaves the jail more bitter toward society than when he went in."

The inspector, contractors and the architect, J. Alfred Hamme met with the commissioners Wednesday afternoon and then the inspector and contractors went to the jail where they inspected the building with (Please Turn to Page 5)

WOULD BOLSTER CONTESTED TAX ON SOFT DRINKS

Harrisburg, June 5 (P)—The administration hurried today to strengthen Pennsylvania's new soft drinks law in the face of litigation challenging its constitutionality.

With emphasis on speed, House GOP leaders urged committee approval by early next week, if possible, of a proposed amendment to eliminate syrups intended strictly for use in making fountain sundaes from the half-cent an ounce levy.

Rep. Charles H. Brunner, Jr. (R-Montgomery) introduced the revision bill yesterday which also called for specific designation of the tax as an excise levy instead of a property impost.

Suit Pending
A suit pending in Dauphin county court, attacked the constitutionality of the soft drink tax, claiming the levy lacked uniformity, deals with more than one subject and was levied on property, and should have been on the basis of the value instead of quantity.

The law, also imposing a tax of one cent on each 12 ounces or less of bottled soft drinks in addition to the syrup impost, became effective June 1 and is estimated to bring in $35,000,000 in the next two years.

Rep. Herbert P. Sorg (Elk), House Republican leader, said the decision to revise the law was intended "to avoid taxation of that syrup used for sundaes but which is not useable for soft drinks."

Delay Labor Program
Meanwhile, the House put off until Monday consideration of concurrence in senate amendments to the administration labor program, including proposals to outlaw strikes by public employees and eliminate jobless benefits in labor disputes.

The House Labor Relations committee also scheduled a meeting for Monday to weigh senate-passed labor bills which would establish a "cooling off" period in advance of strikes and permit the Pennsylvania Labor Relations board to conduct strike votes before and during labor walkouts.

Chairman Adam T. Bower (R-Northumberland), disclosing he conferred with Gov. James H. Duff yesterday on the Senate labor bills, told a reporter the executive wanted to study the measures before deciding on whether to include them in the administration program.

Tax Commission Bill
Bower also said Duff once more made a request to press for committee approval of legislation to prevent job discrimination because of race, color or creed, adding:

"I told the governor a private poll among committee members showed there was distinct opposition to a fair employment practices bill, but he said he wanted to contact each committee member personally before I take further action."

The house received today senate-approved legislation authorizing a $100,000 study by a special tax commission of Pennsylvania's tax laws to find "a more scientific and equitable basis" of financing the state government.

Table Sunday Bill
The senate also passed yesterday and sent to the governor a measure to permit the Commonwealth's 5,000 per diem workers in the highways department to participate in the state employee's retirement fund.

The house law and order committee last night tabled indefinitely a bill which would permit Sunday hockey games subject to local reference.

A committee spokesman said long debate preceded the tabling motion, chiefly on whether the senate-passed measure should be broadened to include bowling, basketball and other sports not now permitted to be played on Sundays.

Contractors Stop 4,000 Buildings

Philadelphia, June 5 (P)—Work on more than 4,000 commercial building projects costing $60,000,000 and employing 20,000 workers in a five-county area was at a standstill today as the result of a stop-work order issued by the General Contractors association.

The association, through its secretary, Harold B. Hoffman, ordered all work in the area halted after quitting time yesterday because of what it called work stoppages by various building trades unions.

Joseph F. Burke, president of the Building Trades Council (AFL), called the contractors' action an "unjustifiable lockout" and said that his efforts to negotiate the dispute had met with little if any success.

Bethlehem, Pa., (P)—George B. Curran, registrar of Lehigh university, who keeps tabs on class-cutting by students, set a new attendance mark himself yesterday. He completed 20 years of service as secretary of faculty meetings—without absence.

PROFESSOR, 55, MISSING 2 DAYS

State College, Pa., June 5 (P)—State police and college authorities renewed a search today for Dr. Vernon R. Haber, professor of zoology at the Pennsylvania State college, missing from his home here Tuesday.

The 55-year-old professor disappeared shortly after lecturing to a morning class and despite a widespread search, police have been unable to unearth any clue as to his whereabouts.

A neighbor reported seeing the professor on the campus in the vicinity of the college dairy barns shortly before noon, but that is the last report police have received concerning his movements.

Hundreds of volunteer searchers, including many college students combed the nearby woodlands after Mrs. Haber disclosed that her husband frequently took long hikes into the mountains to study insects and birds. Three airplanes and bloodhounds from nearby Rockview pen-

Report Violence In Freight Strike

Pittsburgh, June 5 (P)—First violence was reported yesterday in Pittsburgh's four-day-old freight strike.

Police Lt. Lawrence J. Maloney said two non-union truck drivers told him they were beaten by an estimated 12 men when they attempted to make a delivery on the thoroughfare.

The men, Fred Birch, 37, and Herman Wolf, about the same age, were treated for bruises at Allegheny hospital.

Meanwhile, negotiations in the strike remained stalemated. Local 249 of the AFL-Teamsters demanding a 35-cents hourly raise and the Western Pennsylvania Motor Carriers association offering 15 cents.

Chapter 14

At the newspaper office Editor Prime phoned for Pedrick who came into the office. Rush let Prime tell him the story. Pedrick sat it out in an unaccustomed silence. When Prime was through he looked at Rush.

"You know, my secretive friend, I suspected you from the first. You didn't look like an article writer to me."

Prime explained Rush's idea. Pedrick got it at once and was enthusiastic.

"Propaganda fascinates me. I've had an uncontrollable yen to influence somebody. My time has come."

"You can influence people to your heart's content," said Rush. "I'll give you some ammunition daily. Right now I want a word about the life and times of one W. C. Covington. I'm going to approach him this afternoon."

"Willie?" said Pedrick. "He's got a pretty thick hide or he wouldn't expose himself to the beating he's going to take."

"Want to bet?" asked Rush.

Pedrick looked at him through narrowed eyelids.

"Are you considering tampering with the ballot boxes?" he asked.

"Not at all. I'm going to elect him mayor by the will of the people."

"You," said Pedrick, "talk like a man with a paper head. My uncle's horse has just as good a chance as he has."

"I'll take bets," said Rush. "Look. While you are busy influencing Carney and Sully and their boys into thinking that they're at each other's throats, you'll be influencing the common people into thinking the same thing. I'm convinced that there are enough un-enlightened common people in Forge City to swing the election once they get the word."

"What word is that?" asked Pedrick. "Could I hear it?"

"You can. The word is that they have been taken for a municipal ride like nobody I ever heard of ever got taken for before. Beyond that their fair city has been a profitable playground for a group of selfish, evil, grasping men for many years. When they find that out they aren't going to like it. They are even going to do something about it. Like electing Mr. W. C. Covington."

Pedrick shook his head. "It's a dream."

"Now about W. C.," said Rush.

"Okay. Fiftyish, independently wealthy, wife and two kids of high school age, upright, member of the First M. E. Church, pillar of society, and a pretty nice guy."

"Any guts?" asked Rush.

"Unknown quantity. Maybe if pushed enough."

In the Exchange building Rush by-passed a pair of secretaries busy doing nothing and a roomful of people unenthusiastically addressing envelopes. The feeling of uselessness was heavy in the room. He found Mr. Covington seated behind a desk looking out of his window at the streets of residential Forge City spread out beyond the business district that lay directly below. He introduced himself.

"Why do you want to be mayor, Mr. Covington?" he asked.

"You're not a resident of Forge City, are you?" asked Covington.

Rush shook his head.

"If you were you'd understand. I'm very fond of this city. I grew up here and I made what money I have here. My children are going to spend their lives here. I want it to be the kind of city they can be proud of. I want to be proud of it myself. It isn't that kind of city. If you lived here you'd know how far it misses being the kind of place you can be proud of."

"All right," said Rush. "How strongly do you want to be mayor?"

"I should think that would be obvious. I'm spending a good deal of money and more time. I'm buying a machine that's old in intrigue and practical politics. Isn't that an answer?"

"That's one kind of answer," said Rush. "I'll lay my cards on the table. I am a private detective from Chicago. I once managed to clean up a city that was almost as bad as Forge City. Someone has engaged me to do the same thing for Forge City. To me, it looks like the easiest and most permanent way would be to elect you mayor. That is what I propose to do."

Covington looked at him curiously.

"You have a strange faculty for making very extraordinary statements sound ordinary, Mr. Henry. How do you propose to elect me?"

"That should be obvious," said Rush. "Your biggest handicap is the fact that almost nobody realizes what a bad condition things are in Forge City. You can talk to them for a thousand years and it'll be just that, talk. I propose to show them. I have already started as a matter of fact. You may not know it but there is a gang war going on in Forge City. The gangs don't even know it yet, but they will. You see, the odd thing about your bosses in Forge City is that they don't look, act, or sound like bosses. There is no strife, nothing. They are too well organized. So I'll fix it so they sound like bosses. I've almost got them at each other's throats now. In a day or so Joe Public is going to think hell has popped in his town."

Covington smiled for the first time during the interview.

"What do you want me to do now?"

"Nothing that you wouldn't do anyway. You'll recognize my ammunition as it appears. Use it. I would suggest a public statement by yourself that the gangs which have ruled Forge City are becoming unmanageable. Read your papers; you'll find things to point the finger of shame at in quantity. I'll give you more to back up anything you want to say about Carney and Sully."

Covington took a deep breath.

"All right, Henry. If I'm elected Mayor I'll listen to you. In the meantime I don't want to know anything you are doing. I want to be completely disassociated from you. You go your way and I'll go mine and you come see me after the election."

Rush smiled at him.

"You'll be a practical politician yet," he said. "You'll be seeing me." With that he left the office and returned to the "Chronicle" building.

Chapter 15

Tiring of looking for Cabs Rush hired a car by the week and drove to Gay Wimberly's apartment. Rush grinned and put his arms around her.

"The time is overdue for this," he said and kissed her quite thoroughly. He stopped suddenly and picked up Gay's wrap. It was becoming increasingly difficult to remain objective while kissing Gay.

He led the way to the car and they drove in silence.

Carlo's night club was not doing what could be called a rushing business. There were areas of as much as three or four tables, entirely empty. Rush grinned an inner grin.

A waiter showed them to a table and took their order for drinks. The drinks came and with them the floor show. The crowd tried hard to enjoy themselves but it missed somehow. The lights went up after the floor show and the band began playing for dancing.

Kit English and Pedrick got up to dance.

Across the room leaning against the wall, looking anywhere but at Rush stood Robin Twist. As he stood there he idly buffed the fingernails of his right hand against his coat lapel. It was an old signal. It meant, see me right away.

"This is no gag," he said, "but I have to see a man. It won't take long."

Gay sighed resignedly.

Rush walked past Robin and into the men's room. It was almost empty. A moment later Robin came in and began to wash his hands.

"It's working," he said. "Nobody knows what's happening but they know something's happening. They're getting edgy and a lot of the boys are wearing rods. That's new in this town."

"Yeah," said Rush. "Anything else?"

"Nobody puts it in words but they're beginning to wonder if Carney and Sully are getting along as well as they used to. That's one school of thought. The other is that maybe somebody from outside is trying to move in."

Rush dried his hands.

"Keep pitching," he said. "I've got a new angle for tomorrow. I'll give it to you tomorrow night at ten. Have all the boys in my room."

Rush went back to the table then and stood beside Gay.

"Come on Pavlova," he said. "On your feet."

Gay danced as Rush had known she would.

The music stopped and as if it were the most natural thing in the world Rush took her hand and held it in his as they walked to the table.

Kit and Pedrick were there before them and as they sat down Max Carney loomed up behind Kit's chair and beamed down at them.

He sat down and a waiter materialized to take their orders. "I'm glad you came tonight, Matt," he said. "I'd appreciate it if you'd give me an item in your column on last night. I want to explain that it was some trouble in the air conditioning system. Some of the cooling fluid leaked into the air ducts. I wish you'd give that a line in the paper."

"I'll put it in tomorrow, Max," said Pedrick.

"It's a good story," said Rush.

"But I'll make you a bet."

Carney let his head turn slowly to look at Rush.

"On what?" he asked.

"I'll bet two to one that you found some splinters of glass on the floor across the way."

Carney's eyes narrowed.

"What makes you think we did?"

"I've smelled that smell before. That was no cooling fluid, that was a stink bomb stink. I'd know it anywhere."

"I don't think I'd mention that to anyone else if I were you," Henry, said Carney.

"I wasn't thinking of mentioning it," said Rush. "You got a good story. I'd hate to spoil it."

"I'd hate to have you," Carney looked at him speculatively. "You know, I'd hate to have you get the wrong idea of this town, Henry. I wouldn't want you to think that the things that have happened since you came are typical. We don't allow things like that in this town."

"I'm sure you don't," said Rush wondering if he was being warned.

"No," said Carney. "When we have troubles like these we do something about them. It usually turns out that the trouble is all for the one who started it."

"Anybody'd be foolish to buck a setup like yours," said Rush. Let him figure that out, he thought.

As Rush was helping Gay into the car he remembered what had seemed unusual about the evening.

"Look," he said. "It just occurred to me. Don't you work anymore? This is the third night in a row you've been out with me. Don't tell me you're giving up everything for Henry."

"No," said Gay. "I just have a new job. I've been meaning to tell you."

"Fine. What are you doing now?"

"This'll kill you. I'm working for

to dance.

Seek To Identify Murdered Victim

Philadelphia, June 5 (AP)—Homicide detectives hope to determine today which of three manufacturers made the metal drum in which the strangled body of a middle-aged woman was found Monday and possibly get their first clue to the identity of the victim.

Detective Sergeant Samuel Ricciardi said once the manufacturer is Max Carney.

"Doing what, for goodness' sake?" "That's the part that will kill you. I'm keeping an eye on you."

found police may be able to trace the sale of the barrel which was sealed expertly after the body had been stuffed in it.

Meanwhile, Police and Missing Persons bureaus in eight states have been alerted in another attempt to identify the woman whose body was found with a 36-inch strip of gauze knotted around her neck in a noose.

Detective Lieutenant James Kelly issued a revised description of the victim after further examination of the body by the coroner's physician. Kelly said the woman, previously described as a blonde, had light brown hair mixed with gray. Her age was estimated at between 45 and 50 years.

RELIGIOUS MOVIES

Harrisburg, June 5 (AP)—Legislation clearing the way for Pennsylvania's churches to exhibit religious motion pictures on Sunday has been adopted without dissent by the Senate. The measure, introduced originally in the House, was returned to the lower chamber today for concurrence in a Senate-inserted amendment which stipulates that no admission charges may be made by the churches.

DIETS NOT FOR DAMES ALONE, SAYS EXPERT

By HAL BOYLE
Oklahoma City, (P)—What fun is it to be whistled at if the whistlers aren't worth a hoot?
That's what a number of Oklahoma high school girls wrote in to ask Miss Maxine Turner, state nutritionist, after she told them in a frank booklet that the best way to become a "whistle job" was to develop a "classy chassis."
The girls complained that the quality of "nice wolves" was so low it was hardly worth the trouble to develop eye appeal.
So Miss Turner, an attractive brunette who follows her own advice, has prepared a booklet for the Oklahoma State Department of Health telling high school boys "how to be a big-time operator."
Jive Language
She talks in their own jive language.
"If you're only slightly repulsive, you can talk it over with the physical education teacher or the coach," she wrote. "They were probably young once, too."
"However, there are a few things every guy can do to stay on the beam. Such foods as milk shakes, pastries, cakes, rich sauces, cream, fat meats and candies are no-go if you sport a plump rump."
"If you're a slim Jim—and you can tell from the number of times she slams that receiver down in your ear—you'll need to eat more of the fattening foods."

Advice To Romeos
Under the heading "Ain't You Got No Happy?", Miss Turner told the high school Romeos:
"If it's come to the point she'd rather talk than cuddle, you're in a bad way, chum—and no kidding."
"However, you can't blame a gal these days for not wanting to nestle on a thin shin. Nor can you squawk if she doesn't wanna tackle a mound of fat. After all, Jackson, the war's over, Killroy's back in town."
"Oh, sure, diets are for dames, you say. But guys are for dames too—so you can draw your own conclusions."

Basic Diet
Miss Turner listed as the seven basic food needs:
Green and yellow vegetables—one serving a day.
Citrus fruits—one serving a day.
Potatoes and other fruits and other vegetables—two or three servings a day.
Milk and milk products—one quart daily.

Meat, fish, eggs and poultry—two servings daily.
Whole grain or enriched bread and cereals—three servings daily.
Butter or fortified margarine—three tablespoons daily.
The booklet also advised boys how to clear up skin "hickies" by getting plenty of sleep, cutting down on sweets and using a mild face soap.
"Big broad shoulders and an athlete's hips are certainly an asset," Miss Turner said, "but it takes a few additional doo-dads to snag the dates."

Why Glum, Chum?
"A good clear skin, a nice crop of hair and eyes with a knowing gaze will open more front doors than the frame that carries them around."
In a final chapter on "Why Are You So Glum, Chum?", Miss Turner observed that if "the lush thrush can live without you and the gals give you the icy stare that should be reserved for Luke the Spook"—well, it's probably because "you exude a terrific odor in the disposition."
"Nobody's gonna give a second glance to a sour puss. The kind of food you eat directly affects your disposition. To be cooperative, efficient, sincere and loyal, you must eat properly."
"Desserts, sundaes and soft drinks can come later. Inevitably, the women will follow. After all, that's all you're after."

When there's one catcher for two pitchers

It doesn't take a baseball expert to know that if two pitchers throw to one catcher, each must wait his turn.
The same holds true for telephone switchboards. Present limited central office facilities enable us to "catch" only a given number of calls at a time. With present record telephone traffic, users must sometimes wait a few seconds before completing a call.
We won't be able to "catch" everyone at once until additional equipment becomes available.

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO CURB COMMUNISTS

Harrisburg, June 5 (P)—The issue of curtailing Communism in Pennsylvania swung to the Senate today with House passage of a measure to make members of subversive organizations ineligible for public office and bar them also from holding office in unions or veterans' organizations.
Extensive debate accompanied approval of the measure in the lower chamber yesterday, its sponsor, Rep. Peter F. Bender (R-Allegheny), declaring:

"This legislation is intended to prevent the Communist party from contaminating our unions or patriotic organizations . . . and to stop the Communist movement in this commonwealth."
Called "Dangerous" Bill
Opposition to the bill came from Rep. Homer S. Brown (D-Allegheny) who questioned its constitutionality.
"This is one of the most dangerous pieces of legislation ever presented to the general assembly," he said. "This bill transgresses upon the most fundamental freedoms we have—freedom of speech, assembly and press."
The measure, amended in committee to remove direct reference to communism, defines subversive organizations as any group which advocates anything "to cause a fundamental change in the form of government of the United States by unlawful means, or which has for one of its purposes or aims the ultimate seizure, control or overthrow of said government or that of this commonwealth."

Maximum penalty for a person who "knowingly aids or abets" subversive organizations would be a 10-year prison term and a $5,000 fine.

SODDEN CHANGE
Cleveland, (P)—The weather bureau missed one prediction yesterday—that there would be showers inside its office at Cleveland airport. But the employees were prepared for the emergency. They worked in raincoats until a leaky roof was repaired.

New planes frequently carry the latest in radar installations as well as radio equipment and navigation instruments.

approximately 1,200 pupils between the ages six to 18," Dr. Bream said, "that it has a staff of teachers qualified to do a particular job well; it provides one or more teachers for each grade or subject and it employs specialists to give help in reading, health education, music, art, vocational education, attendance problems and pupil guidance."

Need 200 Pupils

Dr. Bream added that a satisfactory school district "is large enough to provide all needed educational staff and services, or it supplements its efforts by being part of a larger intermediate district." He said six-year elementary schools should have 200 or more pupils and junior-senior high schools an enrollment of not less than 250 with not less than 12 teachers.

"The satisfactory school district," he continued, "has ample resources from district and state funds, to provide essential services on a sound basis."

He outlined three plans which York Springs, Huntingdon and Lattimore townships could consider, as follows:

1. Maintain the present setup, a four-teacher high school with approximately 75 pupils, offering a standard program for all. Outlying districts would have to continue educating their children in one-room schools.
2. Add some variety to the present high school program by including some commercial and agriculture work, hoping to attract a larger number of students, or.
3. To view the problems on a long range basis and consider the possibility of establishing an elementary center for the first six grades, and then dispose of the secondary pupils as the situation allowed.

All three proposals brought forth considerable discussion, both pro and con, with the assemblage convinced that further study of the situation was necessary before conclusions could be reached.

What To Do For That Sluggish, Down-and-Out Feeling

Remember the time when you could eat like a horse, bubbled over with energy, felt happy as a lark? Was it not because you liked to eat—didn't know what digestion was, felt strong as an ox? As age advances the "old stomach" and the ever-changing blood" need help. Now you may again release vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you eat the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloating and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Scurvy Health.

"When I came to Gettysburg for my class reunion this year I witnessed the Memorial Day parade, the first I had seen here in 50 years. And the first musical selection I heard was 'Safe in the Arms of Jesus.' That convinced me this country is still spiritually safe and sound," Wolf said.

He also added that one of his chief claims to fame is that he did the catching when the late Eddie Plank pitched for the Gettysburg baseball team.

1,903,000 leaflets listing precautions against polio are being distributed throughout Pennsylvania... three fourths of the population of this country depend upon wells for their water supply... Chinese literature describes toothbrushes about 1600, but the first American patent was issued in 1857... nearly half of the 1133 veterans who lost their sight during the last war are either working or training for work.

'Explosive' Letters Arrive From Italy

London, June 4 (P)—Scotland Yard said today that prominent Britons had received letters from Italy filled with explosives and arranged to detonate when opened.

Maj. Gen Sir Edward Spears, an admitted anti-Zionist, said he received one of the letters and that it contained "a mechanism like the inside of a watch between two sheets of paper" and a bag of powder "about the size of a banana."

A Scotland Yard spokesman said that "I can neither confirm nor deny" a London Evening Standard report that Field Marshal Lord Montgomery, chief of the Imperial General Staff, and Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the Board of Trade, also received the infernal machines. Scotland Yard's agents visited the War office, however.

NORTHEY MAKES CARDINAL DEBUT WITH 2 HOMERS

(By The Associated Press)

It began to look today like wise old Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, had been reading up on Redbird pennant history when he made that Harry Walker-Ron Northey deal with the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday.

If he did thumb the baseball record books he probably discovered that nearly every year the Cards won a flag, they were aided by a refugee from Philadelphia who had joined the club earlier in the season.

Northey, a hard-hitting outfielder, made a brilliant debut yesterday when he slugged two home runs and a single and batted in four runs to lead the Cards to a 9-0 victory in the second game of a double header with the Braves at Boston.

Northey's big bat plus powerful shutout pitching by Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, 1946 World Series hero, was chiefly responsible for the snapping of a nine-game losing streak by the Cards.

The Braves had hung the ninth straight defeat on the Redbirds by coming from behind with a four-run seventh inning to nip them 4-3 in the opener.

In the only other National league games, the Phillies clouted Cincinnati twice, 5-3, and 10-5 to dump the Reds into seventh place while taking over fifth themselves.

Bobby Feller discovered that even he can't work with only one day's rest. The great Cleveland righthander, who last Friday blanked the Boston Red Sox with only one hit, was rushed in by Manager Lou Boudreau to protect a one-run lead in the seventh inning against Washington.

But the Nats climbed all over him for four runs to win 8-3 and hung a defeat on Feller. They also ended Bob's skein of 29 consecutive scoreless innings. The second game of the scheduled double header at Cleveland was postponed because of rain.

The Chicago White Sox increased their American league lead to a game and a half by winning two squeakers from the Philadelphia Athletics 8-7 and 1-0.

Showing a semblance of their '46 form, the Red Sox swept a double header from the Browns at St. Louis 3-2 and 8-1. Tommy Fina, 29-year-old Texas rookie, pitched five-hit ball to win his first major league game in the nightcap Bobby Doerr, with a double and a two-run homer accounted for all Boston's runs in the opener. He scored on two fly balls.

Detroit and the New York Yankees played a 2-2 tie at Briggs Stadium in a game ended by rain at the end of six innings. Hal Newhouser was leading 2-1 when Joe DiMaggio belted for a double in the sixth inning and scored the tying run on a single by Snuffy Stirrings.

Rain washed out the scheduled contest between Chicago and New York at the Polo Grounds and Pittsburgh and Brooklyn at Ebbets Field.

Triangular Meet Here On Wednesday
The Gettysburg college track team will engage in its final home meet of the season Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock when Bucknell and Juniata will come here for a triangular meet.

Coach Leroy Bloomingdale's clinchmen will be gunning for their first victory after having finished third in a triangular meet with Lehigh and Muhlenberg on April 19, and second in another triangular affair on Saturday with Haverford and John Hopkins at Baltimore.

Sports Roundup
By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, May 6 (P)—Doc White, the old-time pitcher whose consecutive shutout record Bob Feller didn't beat, figures that Bob could have made it if he had been tossing the same dead ball the old timers used.

And Eddie Dyer figures the Dodgers still are the team the Cards will have to beat. "Their catcher (Bruce Edwards) is the best in the league except when Walker Cooper is having a good day," Dyer maintains.

"Eddie Stanky is up in the lead-off spot on my all-star team and Pee-wee Reese is the best shortstop in the league." Improvement note: Last season Ted Williams made only two home runs off Yankee pitching, the first on August 10. This season Ted's first hit against the Yanks in their first clash of the year was a homer.

ROUGH STUFF
Two Oklahoma high schools recently were placed on probation for a year for "unsportsmanlike conduct" during the basketball season. The principal charge against Fanshawe high was that members of the girls' basketball team let the air out of an official's tires.

In New England an umpire called a school game in the sixth inning because the kids who had been pelting him with pebbles switched to larger ones after being warned to stop.

SHOWBOAT
Norman (Ga.) Junior college claims to have discovered the real "grandstander" of college baseball.

Gilbert Coleman, a roly-poly catcher, raced right into the open stands the other day trying to snare a foul hit by a Middle Georgia college batter. A spectator made the catch.

END OF THE LINE
The Braves' Billy Southworth tabs basketball star Frank Baumholtz of the Reds as one of the season's standout rookies. "Like Johnny Rupp, he always gets his bat on the ball," says Billy.

The Cubs doesn't want to pitch a no-hit game. "I flung one years ago and lost my next five starts," Hank explains.

Rain Postpones Interstate Card
(By The Associated Press)
Trenton and Hagerstown will be out tonight to put an end to the perfect slates of Harrisburg and Lancaster in the infant 1947 interstate league season.

Rain postponed the entire card yesterday.

The surprising feature of the first week of play has been the terrific power of batsmen for the Harrisburg Senators and Lancaster Red Roses.

In pre-season dopesheets, the Senators were figured to be tough for they closed with a rush last year and went on to whip Wilmington in the Shughnessy playoffs.

But the Red Roses were strictly an unknown quantity. There has been a major shakeup at Lancaster since the Roses ended up in the loop cellar a year ago. There is a new manager and a flock of new faces in the makeup of the Philadelphia Athletics' farm club.

Lancaster will play at Hagerstown, victories in one of four contests, while Harrisburg journeys to unvictorious Trenton. In other games, York plays at Allentown and Sunbury at Wilkes-Barre.

Veteran Hemsley Is Given Release
Philadelphia, May 6 (P)—The Philadelphia Phillies have given 40-year-old Rolfe Hemsley an unconditional release and farmed out rookie pitcher Dick Koecher and Lou Posen.

Hemsley, a veteran of 19 years as a major league catcher, asked for his release stating he had received offers from two other clubs.

The veteran's backstop said he wanted to play regularly and that he apparently had little chance of replacing young Andy Seminick or Don Padgett. Hemsley appeared in only two games this season.

Koecher and Posen were sent to the Phils' class A farm at Utica, N. Y., in the eastern league. Koecher lost his only start this season to the Boston Braves. Posen, a Chicago sandlot product, had no decisions but pitched scoreless ball for three and a third innings his last time out.

Jimmy Doyle Wins In Tune-Up Fight
Scranton, Pa., May 6 (P)—Jimmy Doyle of Los Angeles, in a workout prepping for his welterweight title bout, scored an impressive technical knockout over George Bradford Smith of New York in the sixth of a scheduled 10-round bout at town hall last night.

Doyle, who at 149 had a give-pound advantage, dropped his foe in the third, fifth and sixth rounds. Smith was helplessly hanging on the ropes when referee Jack Walton ended the event. A total of 1,174

Rain Postpones Interstate Card
(By The Associated Press)
Trenton and Hagerstown will be out tonight to put an end to the perfect slates of Harrisburg and Lancaster in the infant 1947 interstate league season.

Rain postponed the entire card yesterday.

The surprising feature of the first week of play has been the terrific power of batsmen for the Harrisburg Senators and Lancaster Red Roses.

In pre-season dopesheets, the Senators were figured to be tough for they closed with a rush last year and went on to whip Wilmington in the Shughnessy playoffs.

But the Red Roses were strictly an unknown quantity. There has been a major shakeup at Lancaster since the Roses ended up in the loop cellar a year ago. There is a new manager and a flock of new faces in the makeup of the Philadelphia Athletics' farm club.

Lancaster will play at Hagerstown, victories in one of four contests, while Harrisburg journeys to unvictorious Trenton. In other games, York plays at Allentown and Sunbury at Wilkes-Barre.

Veteran Hemsley Is Given Release
Philadelphia, May 6 (P)—The Philadelphia Phillies have given 40-year-old Rolfe Hemsley an unconditional release and farmed out rookie pitcher Dick Koecher and Lou Posen.

Hemsley, a veteran of 19 years as a major league catcher, asked for his release stating he had received offers from two other clubs.

The veteran's backstop said he wanted to play regularly and that he apparently had little chance of replacing young Andy Seminick or Don Padgett. Hemsley appeared in only two games this season.

Koecher and Posen were sent to the Phils' class A farm at Utica, N. Y., in the eastern league. Koecher lost his only start this season to the Boston Braves. Posen, a Chicago sandlot product, had no decisions but pitched scoreless ball for three and a third innings his last time out.

CHRISTOPHER IS STRONG FACTOR IN A'S SUCCESS

Chicago, June 5 (AP)—Russ Christopher, that towering fellow who spends most of his working days in a place called the bull pen, is probably the strongest single factor in the Philadelphia Athletics' amazing surge towards the first division.

And chances are that by the time the season ends, Christopher will have added his name to that little-publicized, yet select group of baseball "firemen."

It might be difficult for the average layman to associate firemen with bull pens, but not baseball managers.

One of these managers, Connie Mack, who has piloted the Athletics to nine American league pennants, popped up with the idea last winter of converting Christopher, his wartime pitching ace, to a relief pitcher.

And Christopher has clicked so well in his new job that the A's now stand in fifth place, only a game out of third.

The six-foot-four moundsman from Port Richmond, Calif., has been called into 13 games from the bull pen, where relief pitchers warm up their salary whips, and has yielded a sparse eight hits in 21 innings while notching four victories against two defeats.

Probably his best performance of the year was turned in yesterday against the Chicago White Sox. He entered the game in the eighth inning with the score tied at three-all. Russ twirled hitless ball for four innings and the A's, thanks to a big 11th inning outburst, won the game, 10 to 3.

LOCALS IN TIE WITH FAIRFIELD

Gettysburg and Fairfield battled to a nine-inning 2-2 tie in an Adams County League game Wednesday evening on the Fairfield diamond. Darkness halted the contest. The game had been postponed from last Friday morning.

Arrangements were made following the game to replay the tilt next Wednesday evening at Fairfield. A new Gettysburg hurler, Randolph Sheads, went the route for the locals and turned in a commendable performance.

The locals tabbed a run in the first inning. Stonesifer singled and advanced to second base on a fielder's choice. A play at third base to nip Stonesifer on Johnson's infield grounder went wild and Stonesifer tallied.

In the third frame Stonesifer was safe on an error. Rohrbaugh sacrificed him to second from where he tallied on Johnson's double.

Fairfield tallied twice in the sixth frame. Scott walked and L. Sites was hit by a pitched ball. After engineering a double steal, both tallied on McClain's hit past shortstop.

The game was a playoff of a postponed affair from May 18. Last week the teams battled to a 6-6 draw in an effort to play off the game.

The victors unleashed a strong hitting attack against the offerings of Roy Moser. A feature of the attack was a home run by Claybaugh in the seventh with a runner on base. Nick Jones caught for the locals.

Chrimer and Eck formed the winning battery.

INJURIES MAY TURN TIDE IN LEAGUE RACES

By JOE REICHLER
(AP Sports Writer)

Injuries the first week in June may have been the turning point of the campaign for the major baseball league 1947 race winners.

In the past few days the Detroit Tigers and Boston Red Sox in the American league and the Brooklyn Dodgers and Chicago Cubs in the National have been crippled by injuries which might prove damaging to their pennant aspirations.

Pete Reiser, Dodger star center-fielder, suffered a "laceration of the skull" in a collision with the concrete centerfield wall at Ebbets Field.

Dr. Dominic Rossi, the Dodgers' physician, said Reiser had a V-shaped cut on the top of his head but could not immediately determine the seriousness of the injury.

Kell suffered cuts on the left knee and right hand from the spikes of New York's George Stinnett, on a close play at Third. Wakefield twisted his left knee sliding into second. Trout, leading 6-2 in the last of the seventh of the same game, gave way to Freddie Hutchinson after a recurrence of an old groin injury.

In Tuesday night's game at the Polo Grounds, the Cubs suffered three mishaps. Third Baseman Stan Hack twisted a leg while chasing a Giant player in a rundown. He will be out indefinitely. Outfielder Bill Nicholson and First Baseman Ed Waitkus were hit by batted balls and Waitkus fell headlong into box seats.

Only two days before, Second Baseman Don Johnson was sidelined by injuries.

The Red Sox, already hard pressed by the season-long loss of Southpaw Pitcher Mickey Harris, lost their fleet centerfielder, Dom Dimaggio, who pulled a shoulder ligament and will be out indefinitely.

The Chicago White Sox lost Second Baseman Cass Michaels for a time when he crashed with Centerfielder Thurman Tucker chasing a fly ball. The Cincinnati Reds' also were minus the services of Leftfielder Augie Galan who pulled a muscle in his leg.

Tie For Lead
On the playing end, the Cubs, behind the four-hr pitching of Fordham Hank Borowy, handed the Giants their first shutout defeat of the season 6-0 and went into a first place tie with the New Yorkers.

The Dodgers, led by Pee Wee Reese, who hit a grand slam home run off Elmer Singleton, moved within four points of the deadlocked Cubs and Giants by whipping the Pirates for the third straight time 9-4.

Detroit retained its two-game lead in the American league by dividing a double header with the Yankees. After the Tigers had copped the opener 6-2 behind Trout, the Yankees unlocked their siege guns to take the nightcap 17-8.

Bobby Feller, who recently disclosed he suffered from a stiff shoulder, won his first game since May 18 when he pitched the Indians to a 6-2 victory over Washington in a night game in Cleveland.

The Boston Braves prevented the St. Louis Cardinals from leaving the National league cellar by defeating the Redbirds 3-1 in a night game in Boston. The win put the Braves one game behind the leaders.

Home runs by Ted Williams and Sam Mele, the latter with one on, gave the Boston Red Sox and Joe Dobson, a 5-2 victory over the Browns in St. Louis.

Ken Heintzelman pitched the Phillies to a 9-2 win over the Cincinnati Reds in Philadelphia.

The Philadelphia Athletics pounded across seven runs, in the top of the 11th to whip the White Sox in Chicago 10-3.

New York, June 5 (AP)—interesting if true item: A story from the south is that the "angel" of one of the big football colleges disagreed with the coach and switched his backing to little Mississippi Southern. We'll see if any high-powered athletes turn up there.

Marcus Frieberger, the six-foot, nine-inch schoolboy basketball player from Greenville, Tex., who was sought by almost everyone, finally settled on Southern Methodist U. and its new coach, Doc Hayes. Frieberger isn't just tall; he can move and he scored 46 points in one game.

Rocks in Trenton's 11-8 victory last night.

The Giants' victory elevated Trenton into fourth place only 13 percentage points behind third place Lancaster which dropped an 11 to 6 decision to the league leading Allentown Cardinals.

Harrisburg's second place Senators coupled strong pitching and timely hitting to smother the Sunbury Yankees 9 to 0. Hagerstown shoved across a tenth inning run to give the Oyls their second straight victory over York by a 5 to 4 score.

Charley Sipple hurried an even seven-hit job against Sunbury and topped his efforts for the Senators with an eighth inning home run with two mates aboard. The victory evened the series at one-all.

Hagerstown manufactured its extra inning run on a ground rule double by Ed Yeash, a passed ball and an outfield fly. The score had been knotted since the fifth inning when York's Red Beard who sent four for five, walked and scored on Dick Shoff's safety.

The front running Cardinals capitalized on power hitting by Bob McClean and Tommy Burgess to take their second straight from Lancaster. Each rapped a pair of home runs.

Today's games: Sunbury at Harrisburg, York at Hagerstown, Lancaster at Allentown, Wilmington at Trenton.

Runaway Horse Hurts Rider And Breaks Leg

Bedford, Pa., June 5 (AP)—A runaway horse from the Bedford Springs hotel stable brought death to the animal and injured its rider yesterday.

The horse, being taken on a canter by James Carnes, 18, a hotel employee, suddenly reared and started back to the stable. The animal cleared one parked car in a jump, started over a second car and struck the windshield, hurling the rider onto the roof of a third car.

Carnes suffered fractures of the arms and ribs. The horse, its leg almost severed by the glass, was shot.

REDS SEEK TO BOLSTER HOLD ON HUNGARY

By JACK GUINN

Budapest, Hungary, June 5 (AP)—Reliable reports indicated today that Communist forces were seeking to consolidate their hold on the Hungarian government by quashing criticism and redoubling border patrols.

A small Landholder party member of Parliament said the Communists, who ousted Premier Ferenc Nagy last week, were preparing legislation which would outlaw criticism of their three-year economic plan and another source said border guards already had been almost doubled.

At the same time, automobile dealers reported an increased demand for cars capable of traveling at least as far as the Austrian border and an official announcement said police were hunting for 14 stolen passports.

Secret Agents Busy (In Vienna, Austrian officials said secret agents were at work in Austria and the U. S. Army-sponsored newspaper Wiener Kurier said the agents were part of a network set up by Hungarian Communists to watch the activities of Hungarians in Austria.)

A reliable informant said Father Isvan Balogh, secretary general of the small Landowners party and a close friend of Nagy, had been threatened with jail in a prosecution for a "financial arrangement" unless he retired from politics and entered a monastery.

Another informant said the mayor of Budapest, another of Nagy's friends, was slated to be replaced.

U. S. Rebuffed

There was speculation, meanwhile, that Russian occupation forces had taken a hand in the training of the Hungarian army. This followed the refusal by Soviet Lt. Gen. V. P. Sviridov to grant high-ranking American officers the right to inspect Hungarian military installations. Ordinarily, such a request would be a mere formality, since America is one of the victors and Hungary a defeated nation. In this case, however, Sviridov said the inspection proposed by the U. S. mission would be impossible.

Brig. Gen. George Weems of Dickson, Tenn., commander of the mission, said the inspection request would be taken up at the next meeting of the control council.

BATTLE LOOMS ON ORGANIZING PHONE UNIONS

Washington, June 5 (AP)—A new independent communications union and the CIO laid battle lines today for a fight to reorganize the nation's telephone workers.

The Communications Workers of America issued a call for a convention next Monday at Miami to complete plans for replacing the National Federation of Telephone Workers, the 49-union organization which directed the costly Bell system strike in April and May.

Joseph Beirne, president of the NPTW and temporary head of the CWA, accused the CIO of trying to "raid our membership" with its new telephone workers organizing committee.

Declaring the CIO claims 200,000 phone workers are ready to enter the new group, Beirne commented in a statement: "We have issued charters to 31 groups of phone workers representing 177,399 workers. We have the members, the CIO has the claims."

Chemical Reaction Saves Fisherman

Millsboro, Pa., June 5 (AP)—Ray Evans, 30, a miner, owed his life today to a chemical reaction familiar to every schoolboy.

Water working on carbide in a can he carried in his pocket flashed an "S.O.S." which saved him from death by drowning in Lake Lynn, just across the Pennsylvania border in West Virginia.

Evans was fishing in the lake at night with a friend, Ralph Hart, about 30, of Brownsville, Pa. Hart hooked a fish and turning to show it to his friend, was startled to see Evans had disappeared.

Hart flashed his light on the lake's surface but could see nothing—until the telltale milky bubbles of carbide gas rose to the surface. He shed his outer clothing, dove to the bottom and brought the unconscious Evans to the rock. Artificial respiration revived Evans.

More 'Explosive' Letters Are Found

London, June 5 (AP)—Scotland Yard said today that three more explosive "letter bombs" like those delivered to British cabinet members and high army officials yesterday had been uncovered by investigators trying to stop the "murder by post" packets from Italy.

One of the three bombs was sent to a prominent person, while the other two were directed to persons less well known. A Yard spokesman said he did not identify them. He declined to say whether they had been delivered to their intended victims or uncovered by the intensive screening of incoming mail instituted by British postal inspectors.

Italian police said they had been unable to uncover any trace of the source of the explosive envelopes there and Scotland Yard denied it had sent detectives to Milan, which a morning newspaper said was the place where the envelopes had been mailed.

Unification Bill Is Called 'Merger'

Washington, June 5 (AP)—Senator Robertson (R-Wyo) said today the pending Army-Navy unification bill actually would merge the two services.

"It's merger legislation, pure and simple," the Wyoming lawmaker told a reporter. "Let's not fool ourselves about that."

Robertson is a member of the senate armed services committee which in his absence yesterday approved the bill by a 12 to 0 vote. He said he would have voted against the measure.

It provides for unification of the military and naval forces under a secretary of national security. The bill says specifically that there shall be no merger, a provision upon which the navy insisted.

Philadelphia, June 5 (AP)—Deportation of 21 Japanese aliens arrested during World War II is upheld by U. S. District court.

In making an appeal from the deportation order issued by Attorney General Tom C. Clark, the Japanese said they were and still are loyal to the United States.
